CATTLE TESTING IN GREENE COUNTY TO BE COMPLETED SOON

State Veterinarian Puts
16 Counties on Tested
List.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 20.—After a busy summer of inspecting cattle herds for tuberculosis, Dr. C. McCandless, state veterinarian, announced today that sixteen additional counties are expected to be put on the accredited list by Jan. 1, 1930.

"Our staff of four inspectors and the nine federal men have entered most of the counties of the state and the work has been pushed ahead rapidly," Dr. McCandless said.

The state division has been aided by the U. S. Bureau of animal inspection, under the local supervision of Dr. D. M. DeFossett. Local veterinarians in each locality have also been used in the inspection.

A total of 39,141 herds, containing 334,954 cattle have been examined for disease since the first of the year. Of this number, 8,111 were found to be reactors to tuberculin tests and were killed.

"The testing has been held up in several counties by litigation suits," Dr. McCandless said. While these may not seem compatible with a recent supreme court decision, each one has to have special attention in the lower courts. Until a final decision is reached for each case, accrediting of the county is necessarily delayed.

"A hearing in October on a pending injunction suit will clear up the situation in Miami County," he continued. "Although an injunction was denied in Butler County, the testing must be withheld for a decision by the court of appeals."

"A Montgomery County injunction has been pending for more than two years," he said. "Another suit was upheld in Geauga County, but since that time more than 75 per cent of the owners who brought the injunction have asked to have their herds tested."

The accredited list now contains thirty-six counties. Others expected to be given a clean bill by Jan. 1 are: Lawrence, Ashland, Fayette, Champaign, Coshocton, Crawford, Geauga, Madison, Trumbull and Wayne. The work will be finished in Greene and Warren in a month and in Ottawa and Pickaway Counties shortly after, officials estimate.

"Testing in Guernsey County has progressed more rapidly than in any other section," the state veterinarian said. "It should be more than half completed by the last of the year."

Champaign County could be cleared up in two weeks, if the injunction is withdrawn, he estimated. Work begun in Columbiana County next week for a re-check, and in Fairfield County Oct. 14.

A county is put on the accredited list if less than one half of one per cent of infection is found.

Under the provisions of the amended Riggs law the owner of condemned cattle is paid two-thirds the difference between the appraised value and the salvage price. Such compensation, however, can not exceed $70 a head for grade cattle and $140 for purebreds.

The cost of compensation is divided equally between the state and federal government but should the federal funds be exhausted, the Ohio law provides that the full cost shall be borne by the state. "There is little likelihood of such a contingency," Dr. DeFossett said. "Congress appropriated $6,500,000 for this purpose, and Ohio's share is $400,000."

At the last session the Ohio legislature set aside $7,000,000 as an indemnity fund for the biennium.

DEATH OF "EMPRESS OF WORLD" Baffles CALIFORNIA POLICE

Fear Eccentric Was Murdered; Body Found By Youth

SUISUN, Calif., Sept. 20.—The sun baked hills and gullied range lands of Solano County have surrendered the body of Irene Wolfskill, eccentric self-styled "empress of the world," and an investigation, with murder a possibility, was underway today.

The body of the 57-year-old spinster—heiress of a famous California family, was found last night by Bernard Glasshoff, 18, a rancher's son, and the mystery of her strange disappearance July 14 was solved in part. The manner of her death, however, remained to puzzle authorities.

For years the spinster was a character of northern California, partly because she was a member of an old family, the heiress to nearly $1,000,000, and partly because of her delusion that "this and all I see are a part of my kingdom."

Wandering through the hills she loved, ever worried because of her possessions, which her distorted mind visioned as including all the earth, Miss Wolfskill was last seen July 14.

She was dressed that day in ankle-length skirts and her long strides were literally eating up the distance as she hiked toward the sunset over the foothills.

When found, the body was clad in a pair of brown mens overalls. Her failure to return home caused anxiety and for days men roamed through the valleys and over the hills, hunting the "empress," dead or alive.

Wooden Valley creek, a few miles from here, is where young Glasshoff stumbled on the body by accident. As a result he will collect the $5,000 reward offered by her brothers, Matt and Ney, wealthy southern Californians.

A mysterious element is that the region where the body was found was the scene of an intensive search in the days after the disappearance of the "empress."

Five hundred men, with dogs to lead them, trailed through the valley on their way to the hills day after day, but did not see the body if it were there then.

An inquest will be held here late today at which time an effort will be made to determine the cause of death. This was not possible earlier because the body was badly decomposed, making examination difficult.

OFFICIAL CITED

DAYTON, O., Sept. 20.—Ray Lake, clerk of the Probate County courts, will appear in probate court here late today to answer charges of violating the liquor laws. Officers claim they found liquor in Lake's car after an accident. Lake was to have appeared yesterday but was reported ill at his home in Eaton.

AUTO KILLS YOUTH

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 20.—An unidentified boy, aged about 18, was killed here today when two automobiles collided.

FAMED GEOLOGISTS LONG OVERDUE FROM EXPLORATION TRIP

Extensive Search For Five Is Started; Win- ter Is Menace

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Sept. 20.—An adventurous airplane quest for fabulously rich copper deposits near Hudson Bay, probably has ended in the death of three internationally known geologists and their two pilots, according to views expressed by old prospectors and fur traders here today.

Two planes used by the party, which was composed of Col. C. D. McAlpine, head of the Dominion Explorers Club; Alex. Reading, geologist, and G. A. Thompson, geologists, and G. A. Thompson and Capt. McMillan, pilots, were many days overdue at Athabasca, Alberta, according to delayed reports reaching here and the fact that wintry gales already are sweeping the northern wastes make hope of rescue slight.

Nevertheless the most extensive search in history of Canada was being organized today in the hope that weather conditions might moderate sufficiently to allow old timers with dog sleds and snow shoes to "go inside" and search the barrens for the missing men.

Officially the geologists were seeking new glacial formations in an uncharted region near Hudson's Bay which is indicated on the maps merely by blank space. However it was known McAlpine dreamed of rediscovering the famous lost copper mines reported in the region by Samuel Hornie in 1771.

Horne described these deposits as the richest he ever had seen but they were so inaccessible that no effort had been made to exploit them until McAlpine organized his expedition.

The planes, which took off from Coronation Gulf in the Arctic Ocean more than a week ago, were equipped only with pontoons for landing on water. This made the old sordidous shake their heads for ice already has formed over the lakes near where they disappeared and it was almost certain the machines had crashed if they attempted a dry landing. If not killed by the crackups it was explained that pilots and passengers were certain to perish from hunger and cold in a short time as the country is uninhabited and game is scarce.

FIVE MISSING IN FRENCH AIRPLANE

CASABLANCA, Morocco, Sept. 20.—Fear for the safety of four French passengers and the pilot of the missing Toulouse-Casablanca Aero postal plane was increased today by the report that wreckage of a fuselage and landing wheel, found along the beach between Mera and Zerka, had been identified as parts of the lost plane.

The wreckage was found by an aerial searcher who had flown along the edge of the Mediterranean in the belief the aero postal plane had fallen into the sea. Among the passengers was Emmanuel Drouse, son of the former cabinet member and his wife.

BLUFFTON SUFFERS $350,000 BLAZE

BLUFFTON, O., Sept. 20.—Fire during the night destroyed the main building of the National Lime and Stone Company at the quarry just within the corporation line, here, with a loss set by officials at $350,000.

Residential and business districts of Bluffton were menaced by showers of sparks from the burning structure. Several roof fires were reported.

Firemen entered the lower half of the building, while the fire raged, to recover tanks containing oxygen and dynamite fuses.

Time and again one of the pumps was forced to leave the scene to extinguish roof fires.

CEDARVILLE MAN KILLED WHEN AUTOS CRASH IN SPRINGFIELD

Victim's Widow Seriously Hurt; Three Others Are Injured When Cars Collide At Street Intersection

Henry Smith, 64, Cedarville, retired farmer, is dead, his wife was perhaps fatally injured and four other persons are suffering from less serious injuries as a result of an auto collision at S. Limestone St. and Perrin Ave. in Springfield at 2:30 p. m. Thursday.

Henry Smith died at Springfield City Hospital at 2:30 a. m. Friday from internal injuries. He also sustained lacerations about the forehead and cheek. The body was removed to Cedarville in an ambulance of M. C. Nagley, Cedarville undertaker.

John Smith, 60, remains in a critical condition at the hospital, suffering from a possible skull fracture, possible internal injuries, fractured left arm and lacerations. She has remained unconscious since the accident and is not expected to live.

Others less seriously hurt are: Miss Catherine Smith, Reeses Mills, W. Va., driver of one car, injuries to the right arm and one ankle, lacerations and suffering from shock.

John Smith, Reeses Mills, brother of Henry Smith and father of Catherine, lacerations above the right eye, a puncture wound on the right side of the nose and possible internal injuries.

Albert Umstot, Reeses Mills, brother-in-law of John Smith, lacerations about the face.

Lewis Hartman, 2232 Ontario Ave., Springfield High School student, severe lacerations on face, hands and right arm, deep cut over right eye.

Russell Henry, 18, 2211 Erie Ave., also a student of Springfield High School, and driver of the car which was also occupied by Hartman, escaped injury.

The Smith car was traveling north on Limestone St. behind a truck of the Refiners Oil Co. while Henry, police learned, was driving south on the same street. Witnesses said Catherine Smith, driver of the sedan, held out her hand as a signal she was about to make a left turn on Perrin Ave. and it is the theory the oil truck obscured the view of the drivers of both cars.

As the Smith car turned left the machine driven by Henry crashed into it, turning it completely around. Henry is said to have been driving at a moderate rate of speed.

PROBE EMBEZZLEMENT

DAYTON, O., Sept. 20.—The county grand jury today was investigating the alleged embezzlement of $4,000 from the national military home post fund. The shortage has been charged to Harry Spreng of Dayton.

ATTACKS WIFE AND ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 20.—Henry Radonski who hocked his wife Nellie, 35, with a meat cleaver, was in a hospital here today after attempting suicide. After cutting his wife Radonski stood on the Erie Railroad tracks and slashed his throat with a razor. Both husband and wife are near death. Radonski was said to have admitted attacking his wife, declaring they quarreled over money the woman had spent on a trip to Europe. Mrs. Radonski's hands were almost severed.

SAMPSON AND SEVEN OTHERS ACCUSED OF ACCEPTING BRIBES

School Text Book Scan- dal Involves Chief Executive

FRANKFORT, Ky., Sept. 20.—Already torn politically, the commonwealth of Kentucky today was thrown into further chaos with the indictment of her governor, Flem D. Sampson and seven members of the state text book commission on charges of unlawfully receiving gifts from publishing concerns.

Governor Sampson, stormy petrel of Kentucky politics since his defeat of the Democratic candidate, J. C. Beckman in 1927, has demanded an immediate trial but the grand jury will not complete its investigation for another week.

The indictment returned late yesterday resulted from three weeks investigation of the activities of the commission. The specific charge is that Sampson and seven of the ten members of the commission "unlawfully, wilfully and knowingly accepted gifts from various book publishing concerns contrary to the state statutes which were seeking to have text books published by them adopted for use in Kentucky public schools."

Sampson is the first Kentucky governor indicted in more than a decade, since 1824, when Joseph Desha was indicted for pardoning his son, who was convicted for murder.

Some months ago another of Sampson's departments, the tax commission in the auditing division, was investigated. Then the state highway commission was probed and now, following the textbook muddle, it is reported the grand jury will re-direct its attention to the sale of $10,000,000 in bonds by the highway commission. The April grand jury, after investigating the highway commission, declared "a deplorable state of conditions existed" and recommended that the subsequent grand jury "return indictments."

The major plank in Sampson's campaign platform was free textbooks. The issue already had rocked the blue grass state's political foundations and Beckman entered the field against Sampson. Beckman, in his anti-Sampson campaign, also denounced the state racing commission supported by Sampson and was defeated by a large majority.

The state's free textbook law was adopted in 1928 and the text-

MINE SEALED AFTER DISASTROUS FIRE

POWHATAN, O., Sept. 20.—Fire and rescue crews today began sealing the Powhatan mine where one man lost his life and several were overcome during a disastrous fire.

A ten-acre section of the mine will be kept sealed for sixty days to smother the subterranean blaze which was still out of control after a sixteen hour battle.

The man killed was Lawrence Leach, 40, night foreman. Lawrence Kurin, a miner, was believed to have been killed and was listed as missing, but he later reported unharmed.

The fire today was steadily eating into timbers and coal in the depth of the mine.

A short circuit, caused by the fall of a rock, was held responsible for the blaze.

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 20.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh started his new trail blazing trip to Central American countries at 8:59 a. m. today.

The big mail plane, which Lindbergh will use on his journey, last night from the airport and started heading towards Havana, the first control stop on the route which opens airmail service to Dutch Guiana.

On this trail blazing flight, Lindbergh, the once "lone eagle," was not alone. He had the new member of the "we" company—Mrs. Anne Lindbergh—and a group of distinguished guests, including Glenn Curtis who with his brother fashioned the first airplane.

MERRY-MAKERS ARE TRAPPED IN BLAZING DETROIT NIGHT CLUB

Panic-Stricken Patrons Caught By Fire Of Myster- ious Origin; Seven Bodies Unidentified In Morgue; Probe Starts

DETROIT, Sept. 20.—A mysterious fire which crackled and snapped through the silken hangings of one of Detroit's most exclusive night clubs took at least sixteen lives today and injured fifty-five persons.

The luxurious interior of the Study Club, on Vernon Highway in the center of the downtown district, was hollowed out by the flames as 100 panic-stricken patrons dived for exits, leaping from windows and risking broken bones to escape.

An early check-up at the morgue, where sixteen bodies were taken, revealed the following dead had been identified: Wallace Krueger of Grand Rapids, an entertainer in the club.

Bertha Kelly, 25, attendant in the women's cloakroom. Morrison Manning, orchestra leader.

E. D. Tedford, waiter. J. C. Kaufman.

Waverly Green. H. B. Smith.

Lawrence Luther. Herrick A. Brown.

The bodies of five men and two women still were unidentified. Firemen who smashed their way into the second-floor cloakroom found twenty-five persons, the living piled with the dead.

For some unknown reason the exterior of the building was only slightly damaged. All the heat and smoke were concentrated in the interior. Damage was estimated at $35,000. As the flames fumed and sputtered up the silken hangings deadly gases were thrown off and rescuers found many of the dead had been asphyxiated.

Passersby volunteered to aid in the rescue work. Among them was John Duvall Dodge, a member of the automobile manufacturer's family who groped his way through the smoke and was slightly burned. The Jack Carney, his companion, also was slightly hurt after carrying injured and dead from the building.

Receiving Hospital, where most of the injured were taken, was crowded, and physicians there said at least five might die from burns and other hurts.

When the first smoke spiraled up the stairway, the patrons of the club dashed for the doors. The twenty-five trapped in the cloakroom apparently tried to retrieve costly garments before escaping but were unable to make their way out of the second-floor room.

In the main club room, screams stormed the windows. Two men and a woman, who jumped from a window, were taken to the hospital with broken legs. Others followed, most of them escaping serious injury. Once firemen had beaten down the flames to the main room, they soon had the blaze under control. As victims, many with their clothing burned off, continued to draggle out of the building, a search was started for bodies and possible survivors. On the small dance floor was found the body of a cigarette girl, her arms wrapped around her tray.

All available fire apparatus in the city was sent to the club, and the staff of Receiving Hospital immediately began to muster physicians and nurses from other institutions to aid.

Martin Cohn, owner of the club was questioned by Inspector Henry J. Garvin of the crime and bomb

NEW COMPANY TAKES OVER CASTLE FARM

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 20.—Castle Farm, well-known radio-house near here, has been sold to a newly formed company, the Dine and Dance Theater Corporation, according to Albert J. Marshall, owner.

Marshall will become the president of the newly formed corporation which is expected eventually to acquire some fifteen clubs. At present three, including Castle Farm, will form the nucleus. The other two are Fairmont Park, Philadelphia, and the Willows, Pittsburgh.

Marshall's Dayton night club, the Forest Gables, is not included in the deal, which is said to involve $250,000 of which $125,000 is in cash.

The accident occurred when the car driven by Young crashed into a machine driven by Harold Caldwell through the windshield and his jugular vein severed. He bled to death. Townsend and Zeeb were cut and bruised.

Young was rushed to Deane for treatment but died enroute. He leaves his widow, a daughter, Miss Louise, a teacher at Fayette, and one son, Raymond, at Pioneer, O.

CATTLE TESTING IN GREENE COUNTY TO BE COMPLETED SOON

State Veterinarian Puts
16 Counties On Tested
List.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 20.—After a busy summer of inspecting cattle herds for tuberculosis, Dr. C. McCandless, state veterinarian, announced today that sixteen additional counties are expected to be put on the accredited list by Jan. 1, 1930.

Our staff of four inspectors and the nine federal men have entered most of the counties of the state and the work has been pushed ahead rapidly," Dr. McCandless said.

The state division has been aided by the U. S. Bureau of animal inspection, under the local supervision of Dr. D. M. DeFoss, local veterinarians in each locality have also been used in the inspection.

A total of 39,141 herds, containing 334,954 cattle have been examined for disease since the first of the year. Of this number, 8,111 were found to be reactors to tuberculin tests and were killed.

"The testing has been held up in several counties by injunction suits," Dr. McCandless said. While these may not seem compatible with a recent supreme court decision, each one has to have special attention in the lower courts. Until a final decision is reached for each case, accrediting of the county is necessarily delayed.

"A hearing in October on a pending injunction suit will clear up the situation in Miami County," he continued. "Although an injunction was denied in Butler County, the testing must be withheld for a decision by the court of appeals."

"A Montgomery County injunction has been pending for more than two years," he said. "Another suit was upheld in Geauga County, but since that time more than 75 per cent of the owners who brought the injunction have asked to have their herds tested."

The accredited list now contains thirty-six counties. Others expected to be given a clean bill by Jan. 1 are: Lawrence, Ashland, Fayette, Champaign, Coshocton, Crawford, Geauga, Madison, Trumbull and Wayne. The work will be finished in Greene and Warren in a month and in Ottawa and Pickaway Counties shortly after, officials estimate.

"Testing in Guernsey county has progressed more rapidly than in any other section," the state veterinarian said. "It should be more than half completed by the last of the year."

Champaign County could be cleared up in two weeks, if the injunction is withdrawn, he estimated. Work begins in Columbiana County next week for a recheck, and in Fairfield County Oct. 14.

A county is put on the accredited list if less than one half of one per cent of infection is found.

Under the provisions of the amended Riggs law the owner of condemned cattle is paid two-thirds the difference between the appraised value and the salvage price. Such compensation, however, can not exceed $70 a head for grade cattle and $140 for purebreds.

The Reeses Mills residents had been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith at Cedarville for about a week, Mary Elizabeth, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith, had been driven by them Wednesday to Oxford, O., where she enrolled at Miami University.

The daughter was advised of the accident late Thursday night and went to the Springfield hospital.

Henry Smith was retired but was the owner of a farm on the Federal Pike on which John Pyle is a tenant. He was also a member of the Masonic Lodge in Cedarville and was prominently identified with activities of the Farm Bureau there.

Funeral services are expected to be held next Monday afternoon at the home in Cedarville.

SAMPSON AND SEVEN OTHERS ACCUSED OF ACCEPTING BRIBES

School Text Book Scandal Involves Chief Executive

FRANKFORT, Ky., Sept. 20.—Already torn politically, the commonwealth of Kentucky today was thrown into further chaos with the indictment of her governor, Flem D. Sampson and seven members of the state text book commission on charges of unlawfully receiving gifts from publishing concerns.

Governor Sampson, stormy petrel of Kentucky politics since his defeat of the Democratic candidate, J. C. Beckman in 1927, has demanded an immediate trial but the grand jury will not complete its investigation for another week.

The indictment returned late yesterday resulted from three weeks investigation of the activities of the commission. The specific charge is that Sampson and seven of the ten members of the commission "unlawfully, wilfully and knowingly accepted gifts from various book publishing concerns contrary to the state statutes which were seeking to have text books published by them adopted for use in Kentucky public schools."

Sampson is the first Kentucky governor indicted in more than a century, since 1824, when Joseph Desha was indicted for pardoning his son, who was convicted for murder.

Some months ago another of Sampson's departments, the tax commission in the auditing division, was investigated. Then the state highway commission was probed and now, following the textbook muddle, it is reported the grand jury will redirect its attention to the sale of $10,000,000 in bonds by the highway commission.

The April grand jury, after investigating the highway commission, declared "a deplorable state of conditions existed" and recommended that the subsequent grand jury "return indictments."

The major plank in Sampson's campaign platform was free textbooks. The issue already had rocked the blue grass state's political foundations and Beckman entered the field against Sampson. Beckman, in his anti-Sampson campaign, also denounced the state racing commission supported by Sampson and was defeated by a large majority.

The state's free textbook law was adopted in 1928 and the text—

MINE SEALED AFTER DISASTROUS FIRE

POWHATAN, O., Sept. 20.—Fire and rescue crews today began sealing the Powhatan mine where one man lost his life and several were overcome during a disastrous fire.

A ten-acre section of the mine will be kept sealed for sixty days to smother the subterranean blaze which was still out of control after a sixteen hour battle.

The man killed was Lawrence Leach, 49, night foreman. Lawrence Kurin, a miner, was believed to have been killed and was listed as missing, but he later reported uninjured.

The fire today was steadily eating into timbers and coal in the depth of the mine.

A short circuit, caused by the fall of a rock, was held responsible for the blaze.

LINDBERGH STARTS ON TRAIL BLAZING

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 20.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh started his new trail blazing trip to Central American countries at 8:59 a. m. today.

The big mail plane, which Lindbergh will use on his journey last night, swung off easily from the airport and started heading towards Havana, the first control stop on the route which opens airmail service to Dutch Guiana.

On this trail blazing flight, Lindbergh, the once "lone eagle," was not alone. He had the new member of the "wee" company—Mrs. Anne Lindbergh—and a group of distinguished guests, including Glenn Curtiss who with his brother fashioned the first airplane.

MERRY-MAKERS ARE TRAPPED IN BLAZING DETROIT NIGHT CLUB

Panic-Stricken Patrons Caught By Fire Of Mysterious Origin; Seven Bodies Unidentified In Morgue; Probe Starts

DETROIT, Sept. 20.—A mysterious fire which crackled and snapped through the silken hangings of one of Detroit's most exclusive night clubs took at least sixteen lives today and injured fifty-five persons.

The luxurious interior of the Study Club, on Vernon Highway in the center of the downtown district, was hollowed out by the flames as 100 panic-stricken patrons dived for exits, leaping from windows and risking broken bones to escape.

An early check-up at the morgue, where sixteen bodies were taken, revealed the following dead had been identified: Wallace Krueger of Grand Rapids, an entertainer in the club.

Bertha Kelly, 25, attendant in the women's cloakroom. Morrison Manning, orchestra leader.

E. D. Tedford, waiter. J. C. Kaufman. Waverly Green. H. B. Smith. Lawrence Luther. Herrick A. Brown.

The bodies of five men and two women still were unidentified.

Firemen who smashed their way into the second-floor cloakroom found twenty-five persons, the living piled with the dead.

For some unknown reason the exterior of the building was only slightly damaged. All the heat and smoke were concentrated in the interior. Damage was estimated at $35,000. As the flames fumed and sputtered up the silken hangings deadly gases were thrown off and rescuers found many of the dead had been asphyxiated.

Passersby volunteered to aid in the rescue work. Among them at least five might die from burns was John Duval Dodge, a member and other hurts.

When the first smoke spiraled up the stairway, the patrons of the club dashed for the door. The twenty-five trapped in the cloak room apparently tried to retrieve costly garments before escaping but were unable to make their way out of the second-floor room.

In the main club room, scorched the windows. Two men and a woman who jumped from a window, were taken to the hospital with broken legs. Others followed, most of them escaping serious injury.

Once firemen had beaten down the flames to the main room, they soon had the blaze under control. As victims, many with their clothing burned off, continued to dangle out of the building, a search was started for bodies and possible survivors. On the small dance floor was found the body of a cigarette girl, her arms wrapped around her tray.

All available fire apparatus in the city was sent to the club, and the staff of Receiving Hospital immediately began to muster physicians and nurses from other institutions to aid.

Martin Cahn, owner of the club was questioned by Inspector Henry J. Garvin of the crime and bomb

NEW COMPANY TAKES OVER CASTLE FARM

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 20.—Castle Farm, well-known roadhouse near here, has been sold to a newly formed company, the Dine him all fees due for alleged work on their behalf of Geneva, and at Washington.

Officials called to testify include Clinton Bardo, president of the New York shipbuilding company, a subsidiary of the Brown-Boveri Electric Company, and Norman R. Parker, vice president of the same concern.

Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, and Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Ship Building Company, a subsidiary of the steel corporation, have been summoned for tomorrow.

They will be accompanied by S. W. Wakeman, chairman of the company's east coast line, whose testimony may be requested.

COMMISSIONER IS ACCIDENT VICTIM

BRYAN, O., Sept. 20.—An automobile collision near here late yesterday cost the life of Wilbur H. Young, 54, Williams County commissioner, and resulted in the imprisonment of two other commissioners, S. S. Townsend of Montpelier and Jacob Zeeb of Edgerton. The latter two were not seriously hurt.

The accident occurred when the car driven by Young crashed into a machine driven by Harold C. Young, 54, Williams County commissioner, and resulted in the death of Young. He bled to death. Townsend and Zeeb were cut and bruised.

Young was rushed to DeWane for treatment but died enroute. He leaves his widow, a daughter, Miss Louise, a teacher at Fayette, and one son, Raymond, at Pioneer, O.

SLAYER SOUGHT

AKRON, O., Sept. 20.—Search was underway today for the "boy friend" of Delpha Hough, 25, neighbor, who was murdered some time Thursday. More than fifty stab wounds were found in the woman's nude body.

Interesting Report Is Heard By B. P. W.

An interesting and entertaining report of the national convention of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs July 6 to 13 at Macinac Island, was given by Miss Faye Ledbetter, delegate to the convention from the Xenia club, at the Xenia Business and Professional Women's Club's first meeting of the season Thursday evening at the Knights of Pythias Hall.

Miss Ledbetter gave outstanding points of interest from the round table discussions which were features of the convention program. She said there are only thirty-eight lines of business or professions from which women are still barred out of a total of 759.

She also told of the charmingly arranged social affairs which were enjoyable features of the convention. Eighteen hundred women were present at the international banquet which was the greatest social event of the convention. Five hundred and ninety-nine voting delegates were present. Miss Ledbetter said that the Business and Professional Women's Club now has a membership of 55,000 representing every state in the United States. Many women who are outstanding in their lines of business or professions were in attendance at the convention and took part in the programs.

An impressive ceremony of the convention was the presentation of the "Golden Book of Memory" to Miss Lena Madsen Phillips, of New York, national president of B. P. W. Clubs. The beautifully bound volume contained the names of the 1,000 members who have been removed by death during the ten years since the organization of the club. The book contains the names of two Xenia members, Miss Florence March and Miss Hazel Flag.

The 1931 convention will be held at Richmond, Va. A delicious six o'clock dinner, served by members of the Pythian Sisters, preceded the address and business meeting. The tables were attractively decorated with autumn flowers and green and yellow candles.

The new president, Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson, announced her various committees for the new year as follows:

Program: Miss Faye Cavanaugh, chairman; Miss Clara Marshall, Miss Mildred Sandoe, Miss Ella Ambuhl; music: Miss Imogene Kester, chairman; Miss Helen Graham; membership: Miss Faye Ledbetter, chairman; Miss Alsetta Gorham, Miss Helen Jones;

XENIANS ATTENDING W. C. T. U. CONVENTION

Mrs. Carrie Flatter, Yellow Springs, president of the Greene County W. C. T. U., is attending the fifty-fifth national convention of the organization at Indianapolis, Ind., this week.

Mrs. W. O. Custis, Mrs. John Dymond and Mrs. J. Downing are among Xenians present as is Mrs. Pluke of Yellow Springs.

More than 3,000 delegates are expected to attend the convention, the principal business of which will be to strengthen the educational policies of the W. C. T. U., to plan to aid the government and administration in law observance and law enforcement and to prepare for the senatorial and congressional election of November, 1930.

The Indianapolis convention has historical significance. It will mark the fiftieth anniversary of a previous W. C. T. U. convention in the same city. Frances Willard was elected to the presidency and the educational policies which prepared the country for national prohibition were adopted at the former meeting.

As part of the program, the W. C. T. U. will unveil a tablet commemorating the life and work of Frances Willard. It is to be placed in the state capitol at Indianapolis and received officially by Gov. Harry G. Leslie.

CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY WITH PARTY THURSDAY

Little Bobby Davis, 205 Hill St., celebrated his seventh birthday, at his home, Thursday afternoon when he entertained a group of his friends.

Games and contests were in play during the afternoon and the Misses Phyllis DeWine and Betty Reeves were awarded prizes at the close of the contests. A dainty refreshment course was served.

Those present were: Misses Betty Jean and Barbara Reeves, Phyllis DeWine, and Ruth Swadener and Bobby Shaw, Junior Smith, Elbert Lewis, Bobby Lightner, and Bobby, Mae and Pearl Davis.

ENTERTAINS CLUB MEMBERS THURSDAY

Twelve members of the "Merry Wives" Club were entertained by Mrs. Donald Cummings at her home on the Upper Belbrook Pike, Thursday. The guests spent the day at the Cummings home and a delicious covered dish dinner was served at noon.

Following the dinner games and contests were enjoyed and an informal social time was held.

The Women's Aid of the Pennsylvania Railroad will hold its first fall meeting Tuesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock at the club rooms in the Pennsylvania Station. A good attendance is desired.

Miss Elizabeth Ewing has returned to this city, from California and will remain here for several weeks.

Mr. Martin Wolf, Cleveland, has returned home after spending several days in this city with relatives.

Hair that sparkles!

No one can deny the importance of having the hair arranged in the style best suited to the individual. Much of the effect is lost, however, unless the hair is kept soft, abundant, lustrous.

A million busy women and girls know the easiest way to keep the hair in perfect condition is with Danderine. The first application will show you how marvelously it removes excess oil from the hair; cleanses it; makes it sparkle with new life and lustre. It's so simple to use Danderine. All you do is put a little on your brush each time you arrange your hair. The consistent use of Danderine will dissolve the worst crust of dandruff; soothe, heal the scalp; stimulate the growth of long, silky abundant hair.

Danderine isn't sticky or oily; doesn't show. It makes the hair easy to manage; holds it in place for hours. "Set" your waves with it and see how much longer they stay in.

JOHN WOOD

Edward Wood, proprietor of a barber shop at 18 W. Main St., has turned the business over to his older son, John, and henceforth will devote his entire time to operation of a beauty parlor establishment in the rear of the shop. The change is effective Monday.

Mr. Wood has been in the barber business for about twenty-five years. His son, who will in the future have charge of the business, graduated from Xenia Central High School in 1923, attended Cedarville College one year and then transferred to Ohio State University, where he was a student for two and one-half years.

"Florence" and "John" Untroubled by Bustle of Wedding Day Plans

Bride-to-Be Manages to Attend Social Events and Complete Her Trousseau as Dad Returns from Maine to Give Her Some Sound Parting Advice Before She "Hops Off" on Great Adventure.

At the left is a drawing of the wedding gown which Florence Trumbull, daughter of Governor Trumbull of Connecticut, will wear when she weds John Coolidge, son of ex-President Calvin Coolidge. This was made from the description as given the artist. Right is a recent photo of Florence and center the church at Plainville, Conn., where the ceremony will be performed.

SHE'LL be married to the son of a former president shortly, but Florence Trumbull doesn't expect, simply because the eyes of the world are upon her, that all the members of the governor-father's household will adjust their ways of living to her whims. As a matter of fact, this charming and intelligent girl, unlike almost any other bride who ever lived, seems to have no whims.

She was the guest of the State of Massachusetts, while 5,000 persons looked on.

But Florence was not entertained at the Eastern States Exposition as the most talked of September bride in America. With her family and John Coolidge she went to Springfield as part of the Connecticut Governor's entourage. Governor Trumbull, and not the future Mrs. John Coolidge, was the guest of honor at a dinner given by former Congressman Henry Bowles. Florence and John were unobtrusively present with the other guests.

As Mrs. Trumbull's sweet simplicity has endeared her to the townsfolk in the little settlement of Plainville, so does Florence pattern her ways to make the business of planning a fashionable wedding delightfully simple for all concerned.

When Governor Trumbull arrived from a three weeks' vacation at his Maine estate, Florence had hundreds of things to ask him about. The governor will help her find her way through this busiest week in her life, but first he had to attend to his business.

The governor goes to the Farmington Gun Club every Saturday afternoon. He shot his usual quota of clay pigeons this week-end. Florence insisted that he follow his customary habit.

"He will find time to advise me," she said. "He always does. But he has so many things to think of, I don't want to bother or worry him." The most hard-hearted person excuses a bride who is selfish, but Florence Trumbull does not know how to be inconsiderate, although she has independent ways of thinking. She will follow the New England tradition that a woman should look after the men in her family to the end of her days.

Cooper said. "If the educational facilities are broadened a larger teaching staff will be required," he estimated. Clifton's report followed a survey made by his department. It will be submitted to trustees for adoption.

FUNERAL SATURDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Mittie V. Booze, 62, who died at her home on the Old Mill Road, seven miles from Springfield, at 12:30 a. m. Thursday, will be conducted at Littleton's funeral parlors in Yellow Springs at 2 p. m. Saturday with interment in the Yellow Springs cemetery.

Mrs. Booze is survived by two sons, Harry and William, both of whom live near Springfield, and a sister, Mrs. Laura O'Conner, Springfield, Va.

MORGAN J. HARNER, RETIRED FARMER, IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Morgan J. Harner, 79, retired farmer, died at his home in Old Town at 11:40 o'clock Thursday evening as a result of a paralytic stroke suffered Wednesday.

Mr. Harner was stricken for the first time last December 26. A second stroke occurred June 15 and since stricken for the second time he had been an invalid.

He was born on the Ludlow Road near Old Town April 3, 1850, the son of Charles and Mary A. Harner and had always lived in that vicinity, making his home on a farm for forty-nine years. For the last seven years he had lived in Old Town.

Surviving are four children, James B., of the Ludlow Road; Mrs. Ruth Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Rachel Ruthe, both of Columbus, Pa., and the following brothers and sisters: Charles, James and Frank, all of near Xenia; Samuel, of Old Town; Mrs. Isabel Hutchison, Dayton, and Mrs. Rose Clark, Old Town. Five grand children also survive.

The funeral party will meet at the home of the son, James B. Harner, Ludlow Road, at 1:30 p. m. Monday and funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock at the Old Town M. E. Church. Burial will be made in Woodland Cemetery. Friends may view the remains at the son's home anytime Saturday afternoon.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE CHILDREN'S ADVOCATES—Take heed that ye despise not one of these little ones; for I say unto you, "That in heaven their angels do always behold the face of my Father which is in heaven. For the Son of man is come to save that which was lost."—Matthew 18:10, 11.

SUDDEN REMINDERS

Quite frequently progressive, intelligent members of the human race get a sudden reminder that many of their fellow men still remain in the backwash from the past. For example, we have the report that the all-metal dirigible ZMC-2 arrived at Lakehurst recently with two bullet holes in her side which were not there when she left this vicinity. Somebody took shots at her, apparently while she was skirting the side of a mountain. Nor does it appear that the "tin" dirigible had a unique experience. The Graf Zeppelin was similarly punctured while enroute from Los Angeles to Lakehurst and the Los Angeles has been made a target several times.

Over in Siberia natives fled in terror, even from the shadow which the Graf Zeppelin cast upon the ground as the craft passed over them, so one of the voyagers reported. But not even in the wildest parts of that country, nor in superstition ridden Russia and China was any attack made upon the ship. It remained for some silly ill-conditioned person in these enlightened United States of America to perpetrate that sort of stupidity.

Statement of many public speakers that Americans lack a sense of humor and also the qualities of patience, is contradicted, we might suggest, by the fact that the American public listens to some of these fellows.

The bolsheviks are demonstrating along the Chinese front just how really enthusiastic they are in the cause of peace.

One thing air police never will be able to do. They never will get a chance to tap on the pavements with night sticks.

It is not the frequency of divorce which is to be deplored so much as the spirit which makes divorce frequent.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK.—The showmanship of Grover Whalen, New York police commissioner, is shown to advantage at 9 o'clock every morning at Headquarters when the police dragnet of the preceding day is emptied for inspection of local and visiting detectives.

The show is officially known as The Line Up. Ten spotlights flood a narrow stage. Below, and in comparative darkness, sit the plain clothesmen. The Deputy Chief Inspector mounts a small platform and faces the stage. He speaks into a microphone, his voice reverberating metallically. The lineup suspects are prodded upon the stage, where Deputy Chief Inspector charges them, one by one, with present and past derelictions. As a culprit is addressed a detective standing near by shifts a microphone in front of his face and his words roar mightily through the room. It's an ordeal for a nervous man.

IN ONE BLOCK

In one block in the 40's on the Western Front there is a theater, one combination speakeasy and rooming house in a row, two of them owned by one proprietor; half a dozen spaghetti joints; a nurses' home; an apartment house owned by Vincent Astor, with a play-vault for the children of tenants; a hotel catering chiefly to single gentlemen and their wives; a warehouse for movie films; half a dozen tenement rookeries, not one family in which has fewer than four kids; a coal and ice cellar run by a Mafia Wop, and a side-wheel bootlegging German grocer with a cockney wife. Also there are four parrots, 9,000 stray cats, and an indefinite number of dogs of disturbed ancestry. A lodger in one of the rooming houses is the widow of an organ grinder.

AND THAT'S ALL SHE SAID

The Duchess waded through a two-column interview with Lily Damita, screen star, and all she found out was that Lily doesn't wear any stockings and got her legs sunburned at Deauville.

ONE MORE

For years, Ignatius, the laundry man, wrung his fellow man's bosom, charging extra for "starching same." He has the identical wife he started out with, fifteen years ago; one son, with a head like a Rocky Ford cantaloupe; a Ford car, a radio, and a Bronx flat with a strip picture on the living room wall of Longfellow, Bryant, Emerson, Whittier and Lowell.

Not long ago a gentleman whose previous name is Aaron opened up a sacramental wine studio next door to Aloysius' flat in conservatory and a week later told Aloysius he'd give him a commission for every customer he got him. In a few days Aloysius' commissions from Brother Aaron exceeded the proceeds of the oroning board, whereupon he permitted his powerful mind to become active.

"That bird Aaron is a dumb-bell," he said to himself, "but he's got the dot." What has he that I lack? And like a flash came the answer: "A better graft!"

So Aloysius is closing his laundry and is going to open up a nice cozy little Elephant's Breth Emporium, and the number of bootleggers in town will be 30,001.

HOW IT BEGAN

George Peck, the Sage of Grassmere, crashed the Thinkerie the other day to burden himself of the opinion that cubist art was originated by some drunk who had spent a night on a billiard table.

TOO BAD!

On the wall of the poker room of a swank club in the Park Ave. area there hangs a sign of ornate execution, which reads: "Some people think their troubles are interesting."

BEGGARS SHOULD NOT SMILE

There's a blind beggar in New York who must have lost his sight before he had a chance to take up psychology, and isn't at time to dip into it since. He plies his tin cup on the fringe of the shopping district, tapping his dismal course with a nodding head and a bright smile. He seldom gets a nickel. People don't want their panhandlers to grin. The voice with the smile may win—but not back of a beggar's cup.

ONE-MINUTE PULPIT

Whoever therefore shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven; but whosoever shall do and teach them, the same shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven.

For I say unto you, That except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, he shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven.—St. Matthew, 19, 23.

THE WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

AN ILLUSION

One of the commonest illusions in this workaday world is the illusion that the part of the average man that he desires inactivity. Men are forever saying to each other that they are tired of the wear and tear of everyday work—in shop or office or wherever they may be. They suffer from an illusion. They just think they want to rest. They don't. Nothing keeps up the supply of happiness like activity, like work. You may think you never want to hear the telephone bell ring again. You may think you never want to have another caller in your office. But silence and idleness are more terrible than anything else. Try a few days with absolutely nothing to do. You will shatter the illusion of the joy of inactivity.

BOOK AGENTS

What a comfort an honest-to-goodness, old-fashioned book agent might be. Ultra-modern book agents come at you with the kind of approach that keeps you from suspecting they have anything to sell. They have chosen you among all men to become the recipient of a free set of books that are being introduced in this new and interesting way. They represent an organization which is restoring the homes of great Americans. They are advance representatives of a national exposition of great educational value to the American school boy. They are everything in the known world except book agents. Of course, before they are through with their carefully built up patter, you discover the book and the hook. They have something to sell. It is so little each month that it is indistinguishably trivial.

Queer that salesmen and saleswomen as clever as book agents often are do not gratify their prospects once in awhile by coming right out and saying: "I have a book to sell. The price is neither too low nor too high. It is reasonable. Here is the book. Have a look at it. Do you want it? No. Very well."

Such a book agent would be welcome almost any office, and he might sell some books.

PRECISE DEFINITION OF COMMUNISTS ADVOCATED

By ALBERT JOHNSON

Congressman from Washington (Albert Johnson was born at Springfield, Ill., March 5, 1869. After attending high school he learned the printer's trade. In 1896 he was managing editor of the New Haven (Conn.) Register. Two years later he was news editor of the Washington (D. C.) Post. From 1898 to 1906 he was editor of the Tacoma (Wash.) News. In 1906 he became editor and publisher of Grays Harbor Washingtonian, at Hoquiam, Wash. He was elected to congress in 1913 from the third Washington district, and has been returned each term since. He is a Republican, and chairman of the committee on immigration and naturalization.)

Congress should make the definition of international revolutionary communists and similar groups so clear and precise as to leave no loopholes in the law.

There are volcanoes of communism scattered throughout the United States—in the small cities as in the big ones.

As soon as the house committee on immigration is organized we will seek not only to formulate legislation corrective of defects in the new deportation law just enacted, but to formulate a clear definition of international revolutionary communists.

During the preparation of the 1924 immigration bill, now on the statute books, the committee spent many hours in an effort to make such a clear and precise definition of a communist as would stand up in law and with the support of the courts of the land.

It is possible to write such a definition of international revolutionary communists and to add it to the present law of 1924 known as the immigration restriction law. The public understands what congress meant when it used the word "anarchist" in the basic immigration restriction act of 1917, that such persons should be excluded from admission into this country and should be deported if found here.

The deportation officials have not made one mistake in the deportation of anarchists. Once we give a legal term describing the communists there is no likelihood of there being one mistake in a thousand with respect to them.

STRAINING AT THE GNAT AND SWALLOWING THE CAMEL!

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

If you are a busy housewife, the chances are that you have been occupied all morning with your household work, marketing, etc. But lunchtime finds most of the heavy work out of the way—beds made, house spic and span again.

Before you start preparations for luncheon, take a few minutes to freshen yourself up. If the children are coming home from school you owe it to them to be at your best, for they adore a good looking mother. They will be more amenable to eating the wholesome foods that should make up the mid-day meal if the luncheon table is presided over by a mother in a fresh, attractive frock, hair attractively arranged and face artistically made up.

Whether you are lunching at home or going out, schedule half an hour for yourself between the morning tasks and your luncheon. Devote this half hour to all those little details of your toilet for which you had no time in the morning—hands can be scrubbed and anointed with a softening hand lotion, nails can be cared for. If you have a weekly manicure, it will take only a few minutes a day to keep your nails in good shape. Wrap a bit of cotton around your orange wood stick and gently press back the cuticle. If the nails need a little filing, use an emery board—it is better than the steel file. Nails are at their loveliest when filed to conform to the natural curve of the fingers. Long pointed nails are a fad with some people, but in rather bad taste, and certainly not beautiful. Liquid polish may be applied once a week, and will need no replenishing until your next manicure.

But if you like the buffed-on polish, a little buffing each day will be necessary.

Cleanse the face with a liquid cleanser and apply fresh make-up. Comb your hair and you are ready for your friends. If you have dishes to do and preparations to make for dinner after luncheon, a crisp cotton frock is both appropriate and charming. If the afternoon is yours to spend as you please, you may dress for your matinee or tea engagement before luncheon.

The woman who does her own work will find it easy and more efficient to make her dinner preparations immediately after luncheon. Potatoes can be peeled, vegetables prepared, lettuce washed and wrapped in a clean towel and put in the ice chest to cool and crisp. Frequently, the dessert can be made and put aside, so that there will be no last minute scramble for dinner in case guests drop in for tea or you get home late from the movie or matinee.

This will also give you time for those few minutes' rest and relaxation before dinner and for the quick rejuvenating treatment which will bring the sparkle to your eyes, the roses to your cheeks. First remove all make-up and stimulate the circulation with a liquid stimulant. Then pat on your favorite lubricating cream and moisten the pads of cotton with a soothing, softening and tightening lotion and place over the eyes. Relax for five or ten minutes. Remove cream, freshen with your skin toning lotion, bathe the eyes with a boracic acid or a special eye lotion, and apply your make-up—and you are ready for dinner—and your most charming self.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON. — William Howard Taft, just turned 72 (Sept. 15), has been such a success as chief justice of the federal supreme court that no one thinks of him as an ex-president.

In fact, he has lived down his presidential term. He was not a conspicuous hit in that job. He "stood by his friends"—the worst mistake a White House tenant can make, according to all political calculations. Naturally he antagonized everyone else by doing so. Of course his friends deserted him when the pinch came, and look what happened to him.

Beaten for re-election, he immediately won all hearts by the fine spirit in which he took his licking. It was bad enough to be defeated for the presidency, anyway.

To be defeated for re-election is about the limit.

A candidate who is nominated out of nothingness and then snowed out at the polls is at liberty to console himself with the thought that it was his party that the voters rejected—that the electorate probably had no objection to him personally.

It must be hard for a man who already has served a term to draw any other conclusion than that he has failed to give entire satisfaction, upon getting only 8 out of 531 electoral votes the second time.

To face such a situation with equanimity requires a mighty good loser.

Taft apparently was not even ruffled. His celebrated smile and twinkling eyes as undimmed as ever, he welcomed Woodrow Wilson into the executive mansion and stepped forth into the cold world, a private citizen. And actually he subsequently accepted a reconciliation with Colonel Roosevelt. Politicians speak of it as nothing short or angelic.

If ever a man led a public life, it has been Chief Justice Taft.

He was born into the governing class—his father was secretary of war when the present head of the United States supreme bench was still three years short of his majority.

Young Taft himself was assistant prosecutor of Hamilton county (O.) at 24.

Thenceforward he never has been out of office for long enough at a time to amount to more than a much-needed vacation. He was a state supreme court judge at 30.

It was for the bench that nature intended Chief Justice Taft.

He has the "judicial temperament"—that was what caused a deal of his trouble as president—he always believed his appointees were innocent until they were proved to be guilty—and, if they happened to be among his personal friends, it took a lot of proving to convince him.

Not that he lacked versatility. He was a first-class solicitor general of the United States, governor general of the Philippines, provisional governor of Cuba and secretary of war, but he always has surpassed himself handing down decisions on knotty points of law—in his 40's as a federal circuit judge in Ohio; in his 60's and 70's as chief of the august supreme tribunal in Washington.

Chief Justice Taft is a man of great ability; not of much imagination.

To him the law is what it means right now.

His fellow supreme court jurists, Justice Holmes and Brandeis (the rest are of no especial consequence), see not only its meaning of the moment, they see it also in the light of its meaning to the future.

Chief Justice Taft's wisdom, the breadth of his learning and the soundness of his judgment, are unquestioned.

Chief Justice Taft and his more prosaic colleagues, Justice Van Devanter, McReynolds, Sutherland, Butler, Sanford and Stone generally agree. If there is any chance to do so, Justice Holmes and Brandeis usually differ from them.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

MENU HINT

Chopped Beef with Vegetables
Riced Potatoes Cabbage Salad
Baked Apples Spice Cake
Tea Milk

The beef and vegetable recipe may be varied to suit individual taste. Tomatoes may be added and any other vegetables you have on hand. I happened to have one small turnip, one carrot and the greater part of a good sized onion when I evolved the dish. Green peppers would add a flip to the flavor.

Today's Recipes

Chopped Beef and Vegetables—Brown one pound chopped round steak in a loaf or small cakes in a little bacon or other fat. When brown on both sides add one good sized carrot, one turnip and a large onion cut in cubes, add hot water to keep from burning, season with pepper and salt, cover and let cook until vegetables are tender. Serve meat on platter, surrounded or covered with vegetables. Serves four.

Spice Cake—One cup brown sugar, one-half cup lard, two eggs, one-half cup molasses, one teaspoon each cinnamon and cloves, one scant cup hot water, two and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons soda. Bake in layers and put together with any desired frosting. The batter may seem thin, but do not add more flour if you have used the quantities given.

Suggestions

Setting Table
Every young housekeeper is anxious to set her table correctly according to standard rules. Not so much the setting for the daily meals perhaps as for Sunday dinner, and company is a bit disturbing until one really knows. Let us talk of the everyday table first, starting with breakfast. Although it may be a hurried meal, yet it should be neatly and attractively placed.

The breakfast cloth may be of damask, colored linen, Japanese or a large linen square, or one of the new cloths made of tea toweling put together with fagot stitching. Or it may be a set of mats in linen, straw or oilcloth. Whatever it is, it must be a spotless covering. Napkins should be changed three times a week, four if it can be managed.

Before each place a service plate is placed. At the right edge the breakfast knife, blade edge turned out, then the fruit, then the cereal spoon. At the upper end of the knife stands the tumbler if the napkin is ringed it is at the head of the plate. At the left of the plate lay the fork, tines up; at the top of the fork the butter plate and across it the spreader. At the right of the one who serves lay fork and tablespoon. Coffee service on a tray at the right of the hostess and with its needed cups and saucers. Butter-servicing plate and server should be rather centrally placed at either side of the table, most convenient with bread or toast plate near it.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

Headaches While Exercising

"DEAR DOCTOR: I can't understand why I should have had a dull headache every day after taking the radio exercises. I tried to start them again since the baby came, but the same headaches returned. As my blood pressure is normal, and I am physically perfect, I would like very much to know if it is wise to continue with the exercises."

"I feel quite sure that because of your help in dieting and exercising I was able to become pregnant, even though I am 40. The baby is three months old, and the joy of our lives."

I congratulate you on the happy results of your reducing, Mrs. B. Obesity has been recognized for some time as one of the reasons for sterility. We do not know whether it is the chemical disturbance of the glands, caused by the unbalanced diet, or whether it is the physical disturbance caused by infiltration of fat. Probably it is a combination of the two factors. We have heard from quite a number of women who, after many years of despair, have been made happy by motherhood, after reduction of weight in the man will also cause sterility.

Now about your exercises: I wouldn't take them if they make your head ache. Why they should do that I don't know. Perhaps you could take part of them, or take them less strenuously. Try them out, because you really should have some exercises, of course.

Those who need instructions on how to lose or gain weight may have our pamphlet on the subject by observing column rules. We also have an article which outlines some splendid Tummy Ten exercises.

"When wearing apparel has been exposed to disease, will dry cleaning render them sterile and safe to wear, or will sunlight airing bring about that result?"

Either would bring about the desired result, P. Germs exposed to the sun and air die very quickly. Tuberculous germs, for instance, are killed by direct sunlight in one-half hour, if in a dried state; but in a few hours in a diffuse light; but in a dark, damp room they will live for months.

"What causes albumin in the urine?"
L. Its most usual significance is inflammation of some degree in the kidneys, L. A normal kidney only permits the waste water and the waste materials from the blood to be filtered out. If the kidneys are inflamed, their cells do not work properly, and one of the normal constituents of the blood, albumin, escapes, and appears in the urine. Albumin may also appear if there is an inflammatory condition in the urinary tract, or if there happens to be blood in the urine, from any cause.

You see from this the importance of going to a physician for an examination and not having a urinalysis made by any commercial concern.

We have a new pamphlet on the kidneys which will tell you how to test your urine for albumin and sugar.

Miss T.—Your questions are answered in our article on Acne.

Tomorrow: Dreams.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

I've been thinking a lot lately of the people who are always taking the joy out of the lives of others.

Sometimes it's by slighting remarks of a personal nature, sometimes it's by fault finding, often by ill-timed advice on matters that are none of the other's business.

Most of us have inferiority complexes way down under the surface, no matter how self-confident we appear. Little slighting remarks about our looks, our mannerisms, our trifling faults that we fondly hope are unnoticed, and we are hurt and discouraged.

Every one needs appreciation, sympathy and understanding. Who are the happiest among your married acquaintances? Isn't it the couple who is always boasting each other? The wife who thinks no one is so fine as her John, the husband whose every word and look proclaim that Mary is the prize among housekeepers and the prize beauty in his eyes?

I'll bet that rude, tactless remarks are responsible for more heartaches than all the philandering in the world.

GIRLIGAGE: You have what is called an inferiority complex, my dear. You should be getting over it now, as you are 18. Take a bath every day, or as often as you possibly can, so that you are immaculately clean and neat. Drink milk, eat plenty of fruits and vegetables, and be out of doors as much as possible. Exercise a lot in the open air. Your complexion will gradually clear up, and that will be a help. Try not to think of yourself. Other people have the same feeling you have, so it's nothing unusual. Try to think of that, and when you are out in company make up your mind that you will help others to have a good time and so forget yourself. You will gradually outgrow those morbid feelings and be happy, I am sure. Always remember, too, that if a face is not beautiful it can be pleasant, and that smiles and happy thoughts are what the old world needs.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I, too, have come to you with my troubles—two of them. Is it true that 'love is man's pasture and woman's existence'? I am in my twentieth year and am in love with a man eight years older. I am not satisfied if I am not with him. I have a love for him that consumes my very being. It stifles me at times. I have fought it, not to hate him, but to love him in a calm, trusting way. It is almost two years now that I have gone with him."

"The other trouble is this: He has asked me to marry him several times, but on each occasion I have talked about other things so as not to show him that I'm dying to marry him. Is it my place to set the 'date' of the happiest moment of my life?"

TROUBLED B. My word, girl, why don't you marry him and get over this stifling love, as you call it? You'll probably be calm enough after you've been married awhile. Of course it's your place to set the date. If you haven't any "trouble," my dear, if the subject of all this affection doesn't return it, you might. Love does seem to occupy a larger place in a woman's life than in a man's. Women seem to be made that way, especially women who have no interests outside the home.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am deeply in love with a boy. He comes to see me once in awhile, but not often. When I am with him he seems to like me, but I want him to love me. Could you suggest a way that I could make him care for me? I have known him for at least two years."

REDBIRD. The only thing I know of, Redbird, is to be so appreciative and sympathetic when he comes to see you that he will want to come again real soon. If that won't work I'm afraid it's hopeless. If he has known you and called on you for two years without falling for you, I'm afraid you don't just attract him in that way.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE CHILDREN'S ADVOCATES—Take heed that ye despise not one of these little ones; for I say unto you, "That in heaven their angels do always behold the face of my Father which is in heaven. For the Son of man is come to save that which was lost."—Matthew 18:10, 11.

SUDDEN REMINDERS

Quite frequently progressive, intelligent members of the human race get a sudden reminder that many of their fellow men still remain in the backwash from the past. For example, we have the report that the all-metal dirigible ZMC-2 arrived at Lakehurst recently with two bullet holes in her side which were not there when she left this vicinity. Somebody took shots at her, apparently while she was skirting the side of a mountain. Nor does it appear that the "tin" dirigible had a unique experience. The Graf Zeppelin was similarly punctured while enroute from Los Angeles to Lakehurst and the Los Angeles has been made a target several times.

Over in Siberia natives fled in terror, even from the shadow which the Graf Zeppelin cast upon the ground as the craft passed over them, so one of the voyagers reported. But not even in the wildest parts of that country, nor in superstition ridden Russia and China was any attack made upon the ship. It remained for some silly ill-conditioned person in these enlightened United States of America to perpetrate that sort of stupidity.

Statement of many public speakers that Americans lack a sense of humor and also the qualities of patience, is contradicted, we might suggest, by the fact that the American public listens to some of these fellows.

The bolsheviks are demonstrating along the Chinese front just how really enthusiastic they are in the cause of peace.

One thing air police never will be able to do. They never will get a chance to tap on the pavements with night sticks.

It is not the frequency of divorce which is to be deplored so much as the spirit which makes divorce frequent.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK.—The showmanship of Grover Whalen, New York police commissioner, is shown to advantage at 9 o'clock every morning at Headquarters when the police dragnet of the preceding day is emptied for inspection of local and visiting detectives.

The show is officially known as The Line Up. Ten spotlights flood a narrow stage. Below, and in comparative darkness, sit the plain clothesmen. The Deputy Chief Inspector mounts a small platform and faces the stage. He speaks into a microphone, his voice reverberating metallically. The lineup suspects are prodded upon the stage, where Deputy Chief Inspector charges them, one by one, with present and past derelictions. As a culprit is addressed a detective standing nearby shifts a microphone in front of his face and his words roar mightily through the room. It's an ordeal for a nervous man.

IN ONE BLOCK

In one block in the 40's on the Western Front there is a theater, one combination speakeasy and rooming house in a row, two of them owned by one proprietor; half a dozen spaghetti joints; a nurses' home; an apartment house owned by Vincent Astor, with a play-yard for the children of tenants; a hotel catering chiefly to single gentlemen and their wives; a warehouse for movie films; half a dozen tenement rookeries; not one family in which has fewer than four kids; a coal and ice cellar run by a Mafia Wop, and a side-wheel bootlegging German grocer with a cockney wife. Also there are four parrots, 9,000 stray cats, and an indefinite number of dogs of disturbed ancestry. A ledger in one of the rooming houses is the widow of an organ grinder.

AND THAT'S ALL SHE SAID
The Duchess waded through a two-column interview with Lily Damita, screen star, and all she found out was that Lily didn't wear any stockings and got her legs sunburned at Deauville.

ONE MORE

For years, Ignatius the laundry wren, wrung his fellow man's bosom, charging extra for "darning same." He has the identical wife he started out with, fifteen years ago; one son, with a head like a Rocky Ford cantaloupe; a Ford car, a radio, and a Bronx flat with a strip of longitude on the living room wall of Longfellow, Bryant, Emerson, Whittier and Lowell.

Not long ago a gentleman whose previous name is Aaron opened up a sacramental wine studio next door to Aloysius' flat iron conservatory and a week later told Aloysius he'd give him a commission for every customer he got him. In a few days Aloysius' commissions from Brother Aaron exceeded the proceeds of the oroning board, whereupon he permitted his powerful mind to become active.

"That bird Aaron is a dumb-bell," he said to himself, "but he's got the dough. What has he got that I lack?" And like a flash came the answer: "A better graft!"

So Aloysius is closing his laundry and is going to open up a nice cozy little Elephant's Breath Emporium, and the number of bootleggers in town will be 30,001.

HOW IT BEGAN

George Peck, the Sage of Grasmere, crashed the Thinkerle the other day too burdened himself of the opinion that cubist art was originated by some drunk who had spent a night on a billiard table.

TOO BAD!

On the wall of the poker room of a swank club in the Park Ave. area there hangs a sign of ornate execution, which reads: "Some people think their troubles are interesting."

BEGGARS SHOULD NOT SMILE
There's a blind beggar in New York who must have lost his sight before he had a chance to take up psychology, and as he didn't time to dip into it since. He plies his tin cup on the fringe of the shopping district, tapping his dismal course with a nodding head and a bright smile. He seldom gets a nickel. People don't want their panhandle to grin. The voice with the smile may win—but not back of a beggar's cup.

ONE-MINUTE PULPIT

Whoever therefore shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven; but whoever shall do and teach them, the same shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven.

For I say unto you, That except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, he shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven.—St. Matthew, v. 19, 23.

THE WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

AN ILLUSION

One of the commonest illusions in this workaday world is the ill-considered belief on the part of the average man that he desires inactivity. Men are forever saying to each other that they are tired of the wear and tear of everyday work—in shop or office or wherever they may be. They suffer from an illusion. They just think they want to rest. They don't. Nothing keeps up the supply of happiness like activity, like work. You may think you never want to hear the telephone bell ring again. You may think you never want to have another caller in your office. But silence and idleness are more terrible than anything else. Try a few days with absolutely nothing to do. You will shatter the illusion of the joy of inactivity.

BOOK AGENTS

What a comfort an honest-to-goodness, old-fashioned book agent might be. Ultra-modern book agents come at you with the kind of approach that keeps you from suspecting they have anything to sell. They have chosen you among all men to become the recipient of a free set of books that are being introduced in this new and interesting way. They represent an organization which is restoring the homes of great Americans. They are advance representatives of a national exposition of great educational value to the American school boy. They are everything in the known world except book agents. Of course, before they are through with their carefully built up patter, you discover the book and the hook. They have something to sell. It is so little each month that it is indescribably trivial.

Quiet that salesmen and saleswomen as clever as book agents often are do not gratify their prospects once in awhile by coming right out and saying: "I have a book to sell. The price is neither too low nor too high. It is reasonable. Here is the book. Have a look at it. Do you want it? No. Very well."

Such a book agent would be welcome in almost any office, and he might sell some books.

PRECISE DEFINITION OF COMMUNISTS ADVOCATED

By ALBERT JOHNSON

Congressman from Washington (Albert Johnson was born at Springfield, Ill., March 5, 1889. After attending high school he learned the printer's trade. In 1896 he was managing editor of the New Haven (Conn.) Register. Two years later he was news editor of the Washington (D. C.) Post. From 1898 to 1906 he was editor of the Tacoma (Wash.) News. In 1906 he became editor and publisher of Grays Harbor Washingtonian, at Hoquiam, Wash. He was elected to congress in 1913 from the third Washington district, and has been returned each term since. He is a Republican, and chairman of the committee on immigration and naturalization.

Congress should make the definition of international revolutionary communists and similar groups so clear and precise as to leave no loopholes in the law.

There are volcans of communism scattered throughout the United States—in the small cities as in the big ones.

As soon as the house committee on immigration is organized we will seek not only to formulate legislation corrective of defects in the new deportation law just enacted, but to formulate a clear definition of international revolutionary communists.

During the preparation of the 1924 immigration bill, now on the statute books, the committee spent many hours in an effort to make such a clear and precise definition of a communist as would stand up in law and with the support of the courts of the land.

It is possible to write such a definition of international revolutionary communists and to add it to the present law of 1924 known as the immigration restriction law. The public understands what congress meant when it used the word "anarchist" in the basic immigration restriction act of 1917, that such persons should be excluded from admission into this country and should be deported if found here.

The deportation officials have not made one mistake in the deportation of anarchists. Once we give a legal term describing the communists there is no likelihood of there being one mistake in a thousand with respect to them.

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

If you are a busy housewife, the chances are that you have been occupied all morning with your household, marketing, etc. But luncheon time finds most of the heavy work out of the way—bills made, house spic and span again.

Before you start preparations for luncheon, take a few minutes to freshen yourself up. If the children are coming home from school you owe it to them to be at your best, for they adore a good looking mother. They will be more amenable to eating the wholesome foods that should make up the mid-day meal if the luncheon table is presided over by a mother in a fresh, attractive frock, hair attractively arranged and face artistically made up.

Whether you are lunching at home or going out, schedule half an hour for yourself between the morning tasks and your luncheon. Devote this half hour to all those little details of your toilet for which you had no time in the morning—hands can be scrubbed and anointed with a softening hand lotion, nails can be cared for. If you have a weekly manicure, it will take only a few minutes a day to keep your nails in good shape. Wrap a bit of cotton around your orange wood stick and gently press back the cuticle. If the nails need a little filing, use an emery board—it is better than the steel file. Nails are at their loveliest when filed to conform to the natural curve of the fingers. Long pointed nails are a fad with some people, but in rather bad taste, and certainly not beautiful. Liquid polish may be applied once a week, and will need no replenishing until your next manicure.

But if you like the buffed-on polish, a little buffing each day will be necessary.

Cleanse the face with a liquid cleanser and apply fresh make-up. Comb your hair and you are ready for your frock. If you have dishes to do and preparations to make for dinner after luncheon, a crisp cotton frock is both appropriate and charming. If the afternoon is yours to spend as you please, you may dress for your matinee or tea engagement before luncheon.

The woman who does her own work will find it easy and more efficient to make her dinner preparations immediately after luncheon. Potatoes can be peeled, vegetables prepared, lettuce washed and wrapped in a clean towel and put in the ice chest to cool and crisp. Frequently, the dessert can be made and put aside, so that there will be no last minute scramble for dinner in case guests drop in for tea or you get home late from the movie or matinee.

This will also give you time for those few minutes' rest and relaxation before dinner and for the quick rejuvenating treatment which will bring the sparkle to your eyes, the roses to your cheeks. First remove all make-up and stimulate the circulation with a liquid stimulant. Then pat on your favorite lubricating cream and moisten little pads of cotton with a soothing, softening and tightening lotion and place over the eyes. Relax for five or ten minutes. Remove cream, freshen with your skin cream, bathe the eyes with a boric acid or a special eye lotion, and apply your make-up—and you are ready for dinner—your most charming self.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON. — William Howard Taft, just turned 72 (Sept. 15), has been such a success as chief justice of the federal supreme court that no one thinks of him as an ex-president.

In fact, he has lived down his presidential term. He was not a conspicuous hit in that job. He "stood by his friends"—the worst mistake a White House tenant can make, according to all political calculations. Naturally he antagonized everyone else by doing so. Of course his friends deserted him when the pinch came. And look what happened to him.

Beaten for re-election, he immediately won all hearts by the fine spirit in which he took his licking. It was bad enough to be defeated for the presidency, anyway.

To be defeated for re-election is about the limit.

A candidate who is nominated out of nothingness and then snowed under at the polls is at liberty to console himself with the thought that it was his party that the voters rejected—that the electorate probably had no objection to him personally.

It must be hard for a man who already has served a term to draw any other conclusion than that he has failed to give entire satisfaction, upon getting only 8 out of 531 electoral votes the second time.

private citizen. And actually he subsequently accepted a reconciliation with Colonel Roosevelt. Politicians speak of it as nothing short of a miracle.

If ever a man led a public life, it has been Chief Justice Taft. He was born into the governing class—his father was secretary of war when the present head of the United States supreme bench was still a young man short of his majority.

Young Taft himself was assistant prosecutor of Hamilton county (O.) at 24.

Thereafter he never has been out of office for long enough at a time to amount to more than a much-needed vacation. He was a state supreme court judge at 30.

It was for the bench that nature intended Chief Justice Taft. It has the "judicial temperament" that was what caused a deal of his trouble as president—he always believed his appointees were innocent until they were proved to be guilty—and if they happened to be among his personal friends, it took a lot of proving to convince him.

Not that he lacked versatility. He was a first-class solicitor general of the United States, governor general of the Philippines, provisional governor of Cuba and secretary of war, but he always has surpassed himself handing down decisions on knotty points of law—in his 40's as a federal circuit judge in Ohio; in his 60's and 70's as chief of the august supreme tribunal in Washington.

To him the law is what it means right now.

His fellow supreme court jurists, Justice Holmes and Brandeis (the rest are of no especial consequence), see not only its meaning of the moment; they see it also in the light of its meaning to the future.

Chief Justice Taft's wisdom, the breadth of his learning and the soundness of his judgment, are unquestioned.

Chief Justice Taft and his more prosaic colleagues, Justice Van Devanter, McReynolds, Sutherland, Butler, Sanford and Stone generally agree. If there is any chance to do so, Justice Holmes and Brandeis usually differ from them.

Chopped Beef with Vegetables
Riced Potatoes Cabbage Salad
Baked Apples Spice Cake
Tea Milk

The beef and vegetable recipe may be varied to suit individual taste. Tomatoes may be added and any other vegetables you have on hand. I happened to have one small turnip, one carrot and the greater part of a good sized onion when I evolved the dish. Green peppers would add a flipp to the flavor.

Today's Recipes

Chopped Beef and Vegetables—Brown one pound chopped round steak in a loaf or small cakes in a little bacon or other fat. When brown on both sides add one good sized carrot, one turnip and a large onion cut in cubes, add hot water to keep from burning, season with pepper and salt, cover and let cook until vegetables are tender. Serve meat on platter, surrounded or covered with vegetables. Serves four.

Spice Cake—One cup brown sugar, one-half cup lard, two eggs, one-half cup molasses, one teaspoon each cinnamon and cloves, one scant cup hot water, two and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons soda. Bake in layers and put together with any desired frosting. The batter may seem thin, but do not add more flour if you have used the quantities given.

Suggestions

Setting Table
Every young housekeeper is anxious to set her table correctly according to standard rules. Not so much the setting for the daily meals perhaps as for Sunday dinner, and company is a bit disturbing until one really knows. Let us talk of the everyday table first, starting with breakfast. Although it may be a hurried meal, yet it should be neatly and attractively placed.

The breakfast cloth may be of damask, colored linen, Japanese towel, a large linen square, or one of the new cloths made of tea toweling put together with fagot stitching. Or it may be a set of mats in linen, straw or oilcloth. Whatever it is, it must be a spotless covering. Napkins should be changed three times a week, four if it can be managed.

Before each place a service plate is placed. At the right edge of the plate, at the left of the plate lay the fork, tines up; at the top of the fork the butter plate and across it the spreader. At the right of the one who serves lay fork and tablespoon. Coffee service on a tray at the right of the hostess and with its needed cups and saucers. Butter-serving plate and server should be rather centrally placed at either side of the table most convenient with bread or toast plate near it.

Headaches While Exercising

"DEAR DOCTOR: I can't understand why I should have had a dull headache every day after taking the radio exercises. I tried to start them again since the baby came, but the same headaches returned. As my blood pressure is normal, and I am physically perfect, I would like very much to know if it is wise to continue with the exercises."

"I feel quite sure that because of your help in dieting and exercising I was able to become pregnant, even though I am 40. The baby is three months old, and the joy of our lives."

MRS. B.
I congratulate you on the happy results of your reducing, Mrs. B. Obesity has been recognized for some time as one of the reasons for sterility. We do not know whether it is the chemical disturbance of the glands, caused by the unbalanced diet, or whether it is the physical disturbance caused by infiltration of fat. Probably it is a combination of the two factors. We have heard from quite a number of women who, after many years of despair, have been made happy by motherhood, after reducing. Overweight in the man will also cause sterility.

Now about your exercises: I wouldn't take them if they make your head ache. Why they should do that I don't know. Perhaps you could take part of them, or take them less strenuously. Try them out, because you really should have some exercises, of course.

Those who need instructions on how to lose or gain weight may have our pamphlet on the subject by observing column rules. We also have an article which outlines some splendid Tummy Ten exercises.

"When wearing apparel has been exposed to disease, will dry cleaning render them sterile and safe to wear, or will sunlight airing bring about that result?"

Either would bring about the desired result, P. Germs exposed to the sun and air die very quickly. Tuberculosis germs, for instance, are killed by direct sunlight in one-half hour, if in a dried state, and in a few hours in a diffuse light; but in a dark, damp room they will live for months.

L.
Its most usual significance is inflammation of some degree in the kidneys, L. A normal kidney only permits the waste water and the waste materials from the blood to be filtered out. If the kidneys are inflamed, their cells do not work properly, and one of the normal constituents of the blood, albumin, escapes, and appears in the urine. Albumin may also appear if there is an inflammatory condition in the urinary tract, or if there happens to be blood in the urine, from any cause.

You see from this the importance of going to a physician for an examination and not laying a urinary made by any commercial concern.

We have a new pamphlet on the kidneys which will tell you how to test your urine for albumin and sugar.

Miss T.—Your questions are answered in our article on Acne.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

I've been thinking a lot lately of the people who are always taking the joy out of the lives of others. Sometimes it's by slighting remarks of a personal nature, sometimes it's by fault finding, often by ill-timed advice on matters that are none of the adviser's business.

Most of us have inferiority complexes way down under the surface, no matter how self-confident we appear. Little slighting remarks about our looks, our manners, our trifling faults that we fondly hope are unnoticed, and we are hurt and discouraged.

Every one needs appreciation, sympathy and understanding. Who are the happiest among your married acquaintances? Isn't it the couple who is always boasting each other? The wife who thinks no one is so fine as her John, the husband whose every word and look proclaim that Mary is the peer among housekeepers and the prize beauty in his eyes?

I'll bet that rude, tactless remarks are responsible for more heartaches than all the philanthropy in the world.

GIRLGLACE: You have what is called an inferiority complex, my dear. You should be getting over it now, as you are 18. Take a bath every day, or as often as you possibly can, so that you are immaculately clean and neat. Drink milk, eat plenty of fruits and vegetables, and be out of doors as much as possible. Exercise a lot in the open air. Your complexion will gradually clear up, and that will be a help. Try not to think of yourself. Other people have the same feeling you have, so it's nothing unusual. Try to think of that, and when you are out in company make up your mind that you will help others to have a good time and so forget yourself. You will gradually outgrow these morbid feelings and be happy, I am sure. Always remember, too, that if a face is not beautiful it can be pleasant, and that smiles and happy thoughts are what the old world needs.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I, too, have come to you with my troubles—two of them. Is it true that love is man's pastime and woman's existence? I am in my twentieth year and am in love with a man eight years older. I am not satisfied if I am not with him. I have a love for him that consumes my very being. It stifles me at times. I have fought it, not to hate him, but to love him in a calm, trusting way. It is almost two years now that I have gone with him."

"The other trouble is this: He has asked me to marry him several times, but on each occasion I have talked about other things so as not to show him that I'm dying to marry him. Is it my place to set the 'date' of the happiest moment of my life?"

TROUBLED B.
My word, girl, why don't you marry him and get over this stifling love, as you call it? You'll probably be calm enough after you've been married awhile. Of course it's your place to set the date. You haven't any "trouble," my dear. If the subject of all this affection didn't return to you, a larger place in a woman's life than in a man's. Women seem to be made that way, especially women who have no interests outside the home.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am deeply in love with a boy. He comes to see me once in awhile, but not often. When I am with him he seems to like me, but I want him to love me. Could you suggest a way that I could make him care for me? I have known him for at least two years."

REDBIRD.
The only thing I know of, Redbird, is to be so appreciative and sympathetic when he comes to see you that he will want to come again real soon. If that won't work I'm afraid it's hopeless. If he has known you and called on you for two years without falling for you, I'm afraid you don't just attract him in that way.

"I don't know that I need tell you who brought me here, if you are going to be so disagreeable about it!" remarked he. "But if you really want to know I came with Dawdler, the Bee."

"One could do no less when one is asked for shelter!" murmured Lily, and she didn't sound so cross now. The boy was sure the proud blossom even hung her head a little, as if for shame at the way she had treated sweet rose. "But as far as that rose, Rose, I have seen you rock more than one tired butterfly to sleep and give freely of your dew to many a thirsty bee. What I did was nothing at all, so let's change the subject. The stranger asked what pollen was. You tell him, Rose. You can explain it better than I can."

Swiftly Peter changed his mind about the Lily. Now he admired the royal flower, for he saw she was trying hard to show the rose she was sorry for her rudeness.

Star Athletic Sluggers Ready for Series

Can the Cub's pitchers stop the heavy hitters of the Athletics? It seems practically assured that these teams will cross bats in the world's series since the Mack men have their pennant sewed up and only a tough break can keep the Windy City boys out of it.

Any gambler who knows a friendly argument which ends in fist throwing—will wax hot when the fence busting quintet of the "A's" are mentioned. Just look at them (left to right), Bing Miller, Mickey Cochran, George Haas, Al Simmons and Jimmy

Fox, with a combined average of .342. That's a slugging row for any pitcher to get by, but Hornsby does expect his hurlers to come through. They're good Rogers but they're in a tough spot. Plenty of "Chi" fans will tell you that Guy Bush and Charlie Root are the pitchers who will show these Quakers a few tricks. That may all be so, yet you can't help thinking that these babies have their eyes on the ball and it will take extra fine slabwork to stop them.

SPENT $1500 TRY- ING TO GET WELL

Then Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brought Relief

This startling letter from an ex-serviceman will interest everyone who suffers from constipation:

"I was discharged after the World War with heart trouble and bad stomach. I had saved about $1500. Since then I've spent that sum and a lot more on doctoring and operations and medicines. I always was bothered with constipation."

"I told my wife to get some kind of light breakfast food and I would try it. She came home with a small package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I ate it for breakfast, lunch and dinner, about a common tea-saucer full with milk at each meal. I have been doing this for about a month. I have stopped taking dose (medicines). I work 9 to 12 hours. I have a good appetite. And now I am gaining flesh and believe I am getting well."

GEORGE C. O'CONNELL, Barker, N. Y.

Cleanse your system of constipation's poisons. Thousands have regained their old-time vigor and vim, stopped constipation forever, by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Eat two tablespoons daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Relief is guaranteed. ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. 100% effective—doctors recommend it. Ready-to-serve with milk or cream. Use in cooking. See the recipes on the package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers. Served in leading hotels and restaurants—dining cars.

Team Invades Mexico

Albert Ratcliff, captain and half-back of Louisiana college football team, will lead his aggregation in combat against University of Mexico City Oct. 5, the first time an American football team has ever invaded land of tortillas and manana. President Emilio Portes Gil of Mexico will send a fleet of planes to transport the gridsters to Mexico City.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Principal changes in the football rules for the 1929 season may be summarized as follows:

A ball which has been muffed or fumbled and then recovered by the opponents after striking the ground, may not under the new rules be advanced but is dead automatically at the point of recovery. This has been covered under Rule 6, section 13 (d); rule 13, section 14, and rule 17, section 1 (b), and has permitted the elimination of former rules relative to the protected backward pass.

The previous rule which restricted players of the kicking side from advancing the ball in case they subsequently legally recovered it, has been extended to also cover kick-offs and free kicks and kicks which do not cross the line of scrimmage.

Rule 13, section 8 (a), reverts to the 1927 wording and no longer covers kicked balls which are actually caught by a player and then fumbled.

Rule 16, section 3 (a), has been amplified so as to prohibit so-called "passive" interference beyond the line of scrimmage by players who are ineligible to recover a forward pass.

The try-for-point after touchdown is to be made from the two-yard line instead of the three-yard line, as formerly.

Specifications of the ball have been amended with the limits of pressure have been specified.

School teams are allowed to waive certain provisions of the rule covering substitutions, provided they arrive at a mutual understanding before the game.

It would seem that one of Cincinnati's greatest blunders was the transaction whereby Lewis Albert Fonseca, the well-known opera singer, came to a parting of the ways with the Reds several years ago.

Fonseca, who has been termed one of baseball's misfits for the last seven seasons, has finally vindicated himself and the player who went to the Cleveland Indians' training camp uncertain of a job, is a contender for the American League batting championship at the present writing.

Fonseca, Al Simmons and Jimmy Fox are engaged in a three-way battle for the league leadership but Lou thinks he has a good chance of beating his Athletic rivals.

During most of his major league career Fonseca has been troubled by injuries, a thing that bothered him while with the Reds and which had much to do with his release. This season, which has been his greatest in baseball, Lou has dodged his injury jinx and early in the season he won a regular berth with Cleveland. At present he is batting at a .362 clip. The Reds could use him now all right but there is no use crying over spilled milk.

If Wilmington College does not produce a winning football eleven this fall it will not be because of lack of talent obtained from Xenia. "Pop" Boxwell, Xenia product, is one of eight letter men back and three more Xenians have enrolled at the Quaker college this fall and are looked upon as certain of earning their spurs.

Walter "Speed" Leopold, Fred "Bull Dog" Smith and Jim Burton are the Xenia candidates registered for Coach Shifty Bolen's team. Leopold is a 240-pound center, Smith is a triple threat halfback and Burton, who is the son of Col. C. V. Burton, superintendent of the O. S. and S. O. Home, went to prep school at Rocky River High, Cleveland, and is a guard candidate.

Star Athletic Sluggers Ready for Series

Can the Cub's pitchers stop the heavy hitters of the Athletics? It seems practically assured that these teams will cross bats in the world's series since the Mack men have their pennant sewed up and only a tough break can keep the Windy City boys out of it. Any gambler—you know, a friendly argument which ends in fist throwing—will wax hot when the fence busting quintet of the "A's" are mentioned. Just look at them (left to right), Bing Miller, Mickey Cochrane, George Haas, Al Simmons and Jimmy

Fox, with a combined average of .342. That's a slugging row for any pitcher to get by, but Hornsby does expect his hurlers to come through. They're good Rogers but they're in a tough spot. Plenty of "Chi" fans will tell you that Guy Bush and Charlie Root are the pitchers who will show these Quakers a few tricks. That may all be so, yet you can't help thinking that these babies have their eyes on the ball and it will take extra fine slabwork to stop them.

THIRTY DROWNED WHEN BOAT WRECKED

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 20.—Thirty persons were drowned during a storm along the Pacific coast Wednesday night when a motorboat was wrecked near Villarta in the state of Jalisco, dispatches to the newspaper La Prensa said today.

The dispatch said many of the passengers aboard the motorboat were employees of the American owned Montgomery Banana Company, and were returning from Villarta where they had been celebrating Independence Day.

ROGERS JURY STILL PONDER VERDICT

BRAUNFELS, Tex., Sept. 20.—With twenty-seven hours of argument behind them, the twelve jurors deliberating the bank robbery charge against Mrs. Rebecca Bradley Rogers today were ordered by Judge John Watson to continue efforts to reach an agreement.

Judge Watson said he would keep the jurors until tonight and possibly longer unless they reach a verdict. It was rumored they stood 9 to 3 for acquittal.

Stomach And Kidney Troubles, Too Yield Completely When Modern Medicine Gets Its Chance

"I had been troubled with rheumatic pains throughout my entire body," said Mr. David Fenstermaker, 6060 Guy Street, Massillon, Ohio. "Every bone and muscle ached. My kidneys were in a very bad condition. I had to get up three or four times every night due to bladder actions. My rest was disturbed, and sound sleep was out of the question. My stomach also troubled me. Food fermented and caused gas to form. Constipation added to my discomfort.

"After a few weeks treatment of Konjola, the rheumatic pains gradually lessened. My kidneys were corrected, and I was able to enjoy a full night's rest. Konjola simply banishes constipation and liver trouble. My stomach has been restored to a healthy condition. I am glad to endorse Konjola."

Konjola is sold in Xenia, Ohio at Gallaher drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. —Adv.

Weizmann Believes British Will Change Near East Policy

Weizmann Hopeful From Conferences With Leaders

A CHANGE of the British government's policy toward the establishment of the Jewish National Home in Palestine should now be expected, Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the Jewish Agency for Palestine and of the Zionist Organization, stated to the Jewish Telegraphic Agency correspondent here, following his conference Saturday morning with Arthur Henderson, British Foreign Secretary, who is attending the session of the League of Nations Council.

Dr. Weizmann termed the result of his conference with Mr. Henderson as satisfactory.

Dr. Weizmann said:

"Our present expectations of the British Government will be that it keeps to the spirit and letter of the Mandate and of the Balfour Declaration and undertakes immediate active steps toward this end. The policy of the Palestine Government until now has not been such with which we Zionists could be satisfied."

"Facilities for increased Jewish immigration to Palestine must be offered by the Government in order to enable the upbuilding in Palestine of the Jewish National Home. However, this question of increased immigration merely forms a part of the Government's general policy, which must undergo changes."

"Yesterday's interviews with Prime Minister MacDonald and Viscount Cecil and today's with Mr. Henderson convinced me the British Government maintains a sympathetic attitude, but the results and the findings of the Commission of inquiry investigating the immediate causes of the trouble must first be awaited. I also spoke at Geneva with a number of other statesmen from various countries, who assured me of their friendly attitude.

"Prime Minister Bland expressed his sympathy for our cause in very determined language, regretting the occurrences, he assured me that steps will be taken to prevent trouble from the Syrian frontier."

Dr. Weizmann further expressed his satisfaction with the declarations made by the representative of the various nations at the Friday session of the Council of the League of Nations.

MRS. COOPER WILL ACCOMPANY GOVERNOR TO HOME DEDICATION

Governor Myers Y. Cooper, who will be the chief speaker at the dedication ceremonies for three new buildings at the O. S. and S. O. Home Saturday afternoon, will be accompanied to Xenia by Mrs. Cooper, his staff and a number of prominent state officials.

The address of the chief executive is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock but the dedication program will start at 2 p. m. before the arrival of the governor and his party from Columbus.

The buildings to be dedicated include the new $100,000 hospital and two cottages for advanced students erected at a cost of $75,000.

The girls' cottage, known as the "women's hall," will house two groups of eleven girls each and an instructor while the boys' cottage, known as the "men's hall," will accommodate thirty-five students and an instructor on each floor.

The new hospital will accommodate sixty-seven beds and is designed to care for routine dispensing work, major surgery, all necessary laboratory work, X-ray examinations, physiotherapy, the care of those confined to the hospital and the observation, immunization and preliminary care of all new students as they are admitted to the home.

Construction of the building is of concrete and steel. It is fireproof throughout with a red brick exterior, stone trim, slate roof with white portico. The floors are of terrazzo and the interior walls are plastered except in the service rooms where tile is used.

With its dietary wing and operating wing and medical and staff offices in the center, the hospital will give maximum ease of operation and supervision.

Details of the dedication program are complete. The exercises will be in charge of the board of trustees and veterans organizations, the medical and surgical consulting staff of the home and the Greene County Medical Society will participate in the ceremonies.

PRISONER ESCAPES DURING RIOT TRIAL

MARION, N. C., Sept. 20.—J. Hugh Ball, one of six defendants in the textile strike "conspiracy and insurrection" trial here, sawed his way out of McDowell County Jail today.

Escape of the prisoner abruptly ended the court proceedings.

When informed of the escape, Judge John H. Harwood declared a mistrial.

Three other prisoners, not connected with the insurrection case which grew out of mill riots here last August, escaped with Ball.

Solicitor J. W. Pless, Jr., state prosecutor, said he would announce later what disposition would be made of cases of fifty-four others arrested on the insurrection charges.

John R. Mott says, "We all need a time of repair each week. We need time in which to store the battery with spiritual energy. We need to gain reserve power. We need to augment our power of resistance. We need from time to time to take our spiritual bearings, and find out where we are and whither we are going."

The public church service of worship offers an opportunity for the needed spiritual repairs, charging the soul with spiritual power and giving the necessary spiritual bearings.

The churches of your community will welcome your presence next Sunday. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?—D. Carl Yoder.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

It is profitable to study the Bible as well as national history with the view to seeing the Providence of God in human events. The following are some of the events in this quarter's lessons that might be called distinctly providential.

1. The destruction of Jerusalem out of Israel off by force from all untangling alliances with heathen, and so withdrew them from the steady influence of their idolatry and low ideals.

2. They were brought as captives into a different part of the world. It gave them a chance to see what those things were that were typically their own. This helped them to discover the beauty of their own religion.

3. Many Jews made such a favorable impression on their heathen overlords that it gave all Jews an advantage.

4. When Babylon fell, the Jews were already being looked upon with favor. At the same time, Cyrus, who became world ruler, found it to his political advantage to practice toleration toward all religions and was particularly moved to help the Jews build their temple. He, however, discouraged any idea they might have as to reviving their national independence. This meant that the returning colony was a church. Its principal object was to provide a real religion.

5. The coming of Cyrus discredited all heathen gods, who were powerless against him. The Jews were able to make idolatry ridiculous. They themselves were forever cured of it.

6. There was time, during the long and most friendly rule of the Persians, for the little community in and around Jerusalem to cultivate a tranquil, peaceful life.

7. The career of Daniel was entirely providential.

8. Ezra's interest in turning the attention of the people to their own Bible, his appearance as a leader, his successful march to Palestine without military escort, all these were providential.

9. The fact that one of Nehemiah's brothers "happened" to come to Shushan to tell him about the bad state of Jerusalem and the fact that Nehemiah was in a high position in Persia, coupled with the natural abilities that Nehemiah possessed, all these were providential. — Young People's Teacher.

1. What events in the quarter's lessons were providential?

2. Why do we not more often recognize God's hand in events providential for us today?

3. Which three characters in the quarter's lessons are the best? Why?

4. What were the elements in the life of Nehemiah that made him the success he was?

5. What was Ezekiel's greatest contribution to his people?

6. Why are great leaders so necessary and important in national life?

7. How can we trace the hand of God in our nation's history?

Clericus says: "The significance of an event is the value that comes out of it and exile derived its significance for Israel in the education they gained from it. It cured them of idolatry and broadened their world view and strengthened their faith and prepared them for the great part they were to play in the redemption of the world."

Lesson Prayer: "Forbid that we should lose our loyalty and reverence for God; give us a listening ear that we may hear thee calling to us when we go astray and a willing heart to hearken to thy voice."

BOOK REVIEW
"The Bridge Between the Testaments," by Booth, Scribner's, is intended for those desiring a brief and readable narration of the main points regarding the origin and meaning of the Bible. It is adapted for use in discussion groups.

"I Believe in Man," by McCord, Harper and Brothers, narrates the experiences of a judge who has carefully analyzed the background of criminals appearing before him and his method of dealing with them in a Christian and humane manner.

There are more than four and a half million Christians in India, out of a total population of over 300,000,000.

A fund of $10,000,000 is to be established by the Boy Scouts of America, part of which is to be used for establishing a school for Scout leaders and a retirement fund for professional leaders.

The Lutheran Church with 81,123,180 adherents is the largest Protestant body in the world according to statistics published in "Das Evangelische Deutschland."

Next come the Methodists, then Anglicans, Baptists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists, having a combined strength of 174,837,327.

John Timothy Stone has just completed twenty years pastorate at the Fourth Presbyterian Church of Chicago. During this time Dr. Stone has officiated at 1,975 weddings and 850 funerals. His church has grown in membership during that time from 638 to 3,000.

The Board of Missions of the Presbyterian Church has been the recipient of a bequest to the extent of $3,000,000 which makes the permanent fund total $13,000,000. James N. Jarvis of New Jersey provided this gift.

Wife Preservers

Dr. J. A. Yoder, physician, testified that the smile of the cheek had been injured and that he could never smile again. The jury immediately returned a verdict of $20,000 in Jimmy's favor, that was the valuation put upon the power of smiling.

If a smile is worth $20,000 when you lose it, it is certainly worth $20,000 when you use it.

THE VALUE OF CHEERFULNESS

Little Jimmy Godfrey, aged 13, climbed a tree to gather walnuts. While in the tree, he came in contact with an electric wire which burned one side of his face, leaving an ugly scar.

A damage suit was instituted against the electric light company in Jimmy's behalf. The chief element of damage about which the claim centered was that Jimmy had lost his youthful smile. On the witness stand, Jimmy was asked to try and smile, with the result of a puckering of the lips and a saddened look upon his face—the smile was gone!

A physician testified that the smile of the cheek had been injured and that he could never smile again. The jury immediately returned a verdict of $20,000 in Jimmy's favor, that was the valuation put upon the power of smiling.

If a smile is worth $20,000 when you lose it, it is certainly worth $20,000 when you use it.

—D. Carl Yoder.

WE NEED GOD DESPITE APPEARANCES

In connection with the framing of the American Constitution in 1787, Benjamin Franklin said, "In the beginning of the conflict with Great Britain, when we were sensible of danger, we had daily prayers in the room for divine protection. Our prayers, sir, were heard and they were graciously answered."

"All of us who were engaged in the struggle must have observed frequent instances of a supernatural Providence. To that Providence we owe the opportunity of consulting in peace on the means of establishing our future national felicity. And we have now forgotten this powerful friend, or do we imagine that we no longer need his assistance."

"I have lived a long time—81 years—and the longer I live, the more convincing proof I see that God governs the affairs of men. And if a sparrow cannot fall to the ground without his notice, is it possible that an empire can rise without his aid? We have been assured in the sacred writings that 'Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it.' I firmly believe this and I also believe that without his concurring aid, we shall proceed no better in this political building than the builders of Israel."

Dry Sleuths Nose Out Underwater Smuggling Secret

Working like beavers in a deserted boathouse in Windsor, Canada, enterprising bootleggers had been sending their cargoes of gizgle water to the United States along an underwater cable. A skid-like device was loaded in Canada and dragged on the river bed to Detroit where it was quickly reloaded onto waiting motor trucks. Complete diving equipment for loading the illicit cargo underwater was found. The sketch above shows the artist's conception of the scheme which had evaded the watchful river customs men for many months.

CONNIE MACK TURNED DOWN BABE

One of the very few mistakes Connie Mack ever made was when in 1914 he turned down a chance to buy Babe Ruth from Baltimore for a paltry sum. Artist pictures Connie dreaming how Babe would have looked in an Athletic uniform.

ANNIVERSARY OF ELECTRIC HORSE

A span of 49 years—from Sept. 18, 1880, to Sept. 18, 1929—is represented in the development of the first electric locomotive, turned out by Thomas A. Edison at Menlo Park, N. J., and the huge type that now hauls trains over the Rockies. Both are shown here.

SEVEN SURVIVORS OF REGIMENT MEET; PRESIDENT APPOINTED

George B. Rosser, Greenville, was appointed president of the 110th O. V. I. Association, for the coming year, at the sixty-first annual reunion held in post hall, Court House here, Thursday.

The appointment was made by Miss Anna Baker, Fairfield Pike, whose father, the late D. F. Baker, was a member of the 110th regiment and who several years ago was appointed permanent secretary of the association. Other officers of the regimental association will be appointed by her later.

One hundred persons were served dinner by members of the Women's Relief Corps of Lewis Post, G. A. R. in the post hall, at noon. A splendid program followed the dinner in the assembly room starting at 1:30. The program consisted of readings and music from an antique orchestra, violin, tambourine and rattles, with Mrs. D. L. Croy, Miss Grace Davis, and Mrs. Walter Wike playing the instruments. Singing of negro spirituals by Mrs. W. H. Tilford to her own band accompaniment was enjoyed. Mr. Rosser, newly appointed president of the association, gave a short talk. Several other members of the regiment briefly recalled Civil War experiences. Rev. W. H. Tilford was called upon to make a few remarks.

Only seven of the forty surviving veterans of the regiment were present at the reunion. They were: Samuel P. Hamilton, St. Paris; P. H. Mafey, Franklin; George S. Fellers, Arcanum; Milton Myers, Portledge, Ill.; Thomas Kane, Columbus; J. A. Weatherhead, Millford Center; and J. B. Clark of New Carlisle. A card was received and read from Francis M. Hall of Muncie, Ind., expressing his regret at his inability to attend.

Widows of veterans of the regiment who registered were: Mrs. Mary Middleton, Dayton; Mrs. Anthony Gramm, Dayton; Mrs. Margaret C. Berry, Mrs. Hattie Wiegand and Mrs. Harry M. Burleigh, Springfield; Mrs. Kate Adams, Dayton; Mrs. D. R. Hopping and Mrs. D. F. Baker, Xenia.

Veterans of other regiments present were: Wilson B. Gardner, Dayton; Albert Burrell, Xenia; and Michael Day, Springfield, of the 154th; J. W. N. Reed, Springfield, the 94th; Theodore P. Harrison, Dayton, the 34th; J. W. Swartzell, Dayton, the 131st; James D. Brown, Xenia, the 74th; John Rhoades, Xenia, the 54th and J. E. Johnson, Lawrenceville, the 44th.

Members of the association signed a copy of a petition which is being sponsored by the National Women's Relief Corps, to be presented to congress, asking for an increase in pensions for Union veterans and their widows.

They also, Xenia, acting president of the association this year, presided at the meeting. It was voted by the association to hold the 1930 reunion in Xenia, at a date to be announced later. The date will be fixed as near as possible to the second Thursday in September.

Poems that Live

THE GOLDEN FISH

LOVE is a little golden fish,
Wondrous shy . . . ah, wondrous shy . . .
You may catch him if you wish;
He might make a dainty dish . . .
But . . .
Ah, I've other fish to fry!

For when I try to snare this prize,
Earnestly and patiently,
All my skill the rogue defies,
Lurking safe in Aimee's eyes . . .
So, you see,
I am caught and Love goes free!

WIFE ASKS DIVORCE AFTER THIRTY-ONE YEARS; COURT NEWS

After thirty-one years of married life, Emma Putebaugh has brought suit in Common Pleas Court against Ira W. Putebaugh for permanent alimony and attorney fees, asserting that she is now separated from her husband, who a few days ago ordered her to leave him, take the household goods with her and make her home elsewhere.

The plaintiff charges gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. According to the petition, the defendant has been associating with another married woman and has told his wife he will no longer provide for her. At present Mrs. Putebaugh is making her home with a sister but her health has been broken by his conduct toward her, the petition avers.

They were married at Dayton, September 21, 1898 and have one son, now of age.

WOULD REFORM DEED

Reformation of a deed is sought in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by Perry B. and Hannah Davis against William O. and Sarah E. Beam.

The plaintiffs assert that on February 24, 1921, they contracted with the defendants to sell them certain real estate and that under the terms of the agreement the defendants were to assume and pay as part of the consideration a mortgage lien on the property given to Ariel Powers to secure a note worth $10,297.

It is set forth that the plaintiffs deeded the land to the defendants but through an inadvertence in writing the deed the agreement whereby the defendants were to assume the mortgage obligation was omitted.

According to the petition, the defendants have defaulted in payment of the interest on the note and mortgage and the holder is about to foreclose on the property and hold the plaintiffs liable on the note.

The plaintiffs want the deed reformed so as to have the omitted provisions inserted. Miller and Finney are attorneys for the plaintiffs.

Members of the association serve a copy of a petition which is being sponsored by the National Women's Relief Corps, to be presented to congress, asking for an increase in pensions for Union veterans and their widows.

Emory Dean, Xenia acting president of the association this year, presided at the meeting. It was voted by the association to hold the 1930 reunion in Xenia, at a date to be announced later. The date will be fixed as near as possible to the second Thursday in September.

"Fifi" Tries the "Snuggle"

Fifi D'Ormay, screen player, is seen wearing her latest chiffon dress adorned with crystals and contrasting godets heavily sewn with black jet sequins. A large Chou de black chiffon sewn with crystals makes a pretty collar for "Fifi" to snuggle into when she puts on that "linger longer look."

Poems that Live

THE GOLDEN FISH

LOVE is a little golden fish,
Wondrous shy . . . ah, wondrous shy . . .
You may catch him if you wish;
He might make a dainty dish . . .
But I . . .
Ah, I've other fish to fry!

For when I try to snare this prize,
Earnestly and patiently,
All my skill the rogue defies,
Lurking safe in Aimee's eyes . . .
So, you see,
I am caught and Love goes free!

WIFE ASKS DIVORCE AFTER THIRTY-ONE YEARS; COURT NEWS

After thirty-one years of married life, Emma Paterbaugh has brought suit in Common Pleas Court against Ira W. Paterbaugh for permanent alimony and attorney fees, asserting that she is now separated from her husband, who a few days ago ordered her to leave him, take the household goods with her and make her home elsewhere.

The plaintiff charges gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. According to the petition, the defendant has been associating with another married woman and has told his wife he will no longer provide for her. At present Mrs. Paterbaugh is making her home with a sister but her health has been broken by his conduct toward her, the petition avers.

They were married at Dayton, September 21, 1898 and have one son, now of age.

WOULD REFORM DEED

Reformation of a deed is sought in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by Perry B. and Hannah Davis against William O. and Sarah E. Beam.

The plaintiffs assert that on February 24, 1921, they contracted with the defendants to sell them certain real estate and that under the terms of the agreement the defendants were to assume and pay as part of the consideration a mortgage lien on the property given to Aniel Powers to secure a note worth $10,297.

It is set forth that the plaintiffs deeded the land to the defendants but through an inadvertence in writing the deed the agreement whereby the defendants were to assume the mortgage obligation was omitted.

According to the petition, the defendants have defaulted in payment of the interest on the note and mortgage and the holder is about to foreclose on the property and hold the plaintiffs liable on the note.

The plaintiffs want the deed reformed so as to have the omitted provisions inserted. Miller and Finney are attorneys for the plaintiffs.

GIVEN DIVORCE

Edith Everhart has been awarded a divorce from Burrell Everhart in Common Pleas Court on grounds of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. They were married in Xenia, September 22, 1906 and have one child, now grown and self-supporting.

WINS JUDGMENT

Harry R. Tavenner has recovered a judgment for $500 on a promissory note against Paul D. Patterson and Dora M. Patterson in Common Pleas Court. Foreclosure of mortgaged property was ordered in the event of non-payment.

BRINGING UP FATHER

CHATTY—GODDESS OF GAB

By BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," "SALLY'S SHOULDERS," "MONEY LOVE," "LOVE BOUND," etc.

COPYRIGHT 1929, CENTRAL PRESS ASSN. INC., CLEVELAND, OHIO

READ THIS FIRST:

Charlotte Chatterton, nicknamed Chatty, is a born gossip. Her mother, a widowed dressmaker, has one wealthy customer, Mrs. Van Nuys, and through her Chatty gets a position as switchboard operator in the Van Nuys bond house. There she meets and falls in love with David Jordan, handsome young bond salesman.

Chatty's busy tongue creates havoc in the office. Agnes Herford, Mr. Van Nuys' secretary, leaves on account of Chatty's gossip. David Jordan knows that Chatty is responsible, and drops her. Chatty begins to go with a new salesman, Bryant Dunning, who says he is married but has left his wife. Chatty's friends are Billie Langenau, a file clerk, and Winnie Talcott, Mr. Van's new secretary. After some lively parties Chatty makes up her mind to quit going with Bryant.

The next day, David Jordan brings a girl to the office, and Chatty, in a rage of jealousy, makes another date with Bryant.

But she does not love Bryant, and determines not to have any more dates with him. After an argument with her mother about Bryant, Chatty goes across the hall to see Billie.

Despite all her good intentions, Chatty still goes around with Bryant and his crowd. She asks Bryant to teach her to drive his car.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIV

For a while Chatty had difficulties with her first automobile lesson. A "shot in the arm" and a bottle on the seat are not good beginnings for learning to drive.

Neither is the exciting knowledge that one's boss has just taken his new secretary to a roadhouse quieting information to a beginner.

Nor does one learn easily to shift gears and steer, play with a spark and throttle, and manage clutch and brake, when a kiss descends on the nose of one's neck as soon as one leans over; when an arm is about one, hugging vigorously, with every move.

Chatty hardly gave Bryant time to give her instructions, for talking.

"The old reprobate!" she exclaimed. "Thought he'd get away with it. And Winnie, of all girls! Though she was too wise! She might have known they'd have been seen! Oh, Bryant, what a whispering gallery the office is going to be!"

"Don't see why you've got to spill it," answered Bryant, good naturedly. "No one is making you tell you say them."

"See my best friend giving me the double cross and not tell!" demanded Chatty. "See the proper big boss, who was never going to misbehave again with a girl, out in a road house with his secretary and keep it secret? Well, not so you could notice it!" declared Bryant. "It's my duty to tell."

"Well, never mind your duty!" put in Bryant. "Tend to your steering, little lady! You don't want other people to talk about us piling up in the ditch! Now, clutch out, and then shift—"

Chatty paid attention for five minutes. She was naturally quick, and the car ran easy on to drive. Neither cared for clashing gears and sudden jerks, as Chatty let the clutch in too quickly.

Steering came easily to her; in half an hour Bryant complimented her extravagantly. "Why, you drive as if you had done it for years!" he told her, squeezing her arm. "You are sure one quick little pup!" No one would ever know it was your first lesson!"

"Chatty expanded like a flower in water at his praise. Even if she didn't love him, it was nice to be with him. She didn't mind his eye making, even when it interfered with her driving. She liked it. The drinks had raised her to that condition where everything seems unreal, and rosy and beautiful. The car was wonderful! The night was divine! The story she was to tell on the morrow was a wow! Bryant, himself, was a dear!"

"Kiss me again!" demanded Chatty.

Bryant kissed her—a long, long kiss. He breathed heavily as he released her; Chatty thought him pale, in the dim light of the moon.

"Now, let's go back to the apartment and have a real highball," he said. Chatty fancied his voice shook a little.

Her first impulse was to say no. But drink had made her reckless. Home seemed far away. Besides, she wasn't in love with him. There was no danger! His wife—that for her wife! If he didn't worry about her, why should she?

"Just one, then. Oh, let me drive home!"

Bryant nodded. He didn't want to. It was dangerous—a girl with her first lesson, only to drive in the city. But it was late—later than CHATTY thought. He'd take a chance.

"But go easy, for the love of Mike," he cautioned.

"I'd go easier if you'd let me breathe!" she laughed, retreating to his arm about her.

"Oh, you can breathe—don't be a tin-horn sport!" answered Bryant.

"I'm not a tin-horn sport!" defended Chatty, not really knowing what a tin-horn sport was. "I'm a good sport! Believe it?"

"I need to be shown!" answered Bryant. To Chatty his voice seemed to hold a curious menace.

But she shook off the feeling. "All show, you!" she promised, thinking only that he referred to her driving.

Somehow, she managed to steer the car home to Bryant's apartment—the apartment where the remains of the careful home making of the deceased wife had spoken so sternly to Chatty so short a time ago. But tonight she didn't care.

Bryant fed her two more drinks in rapid succession when they were in his pretty rooms.

The lights glowed softly. The hangings were cheerful, pretty. Chatty recalled the hand stitching everywhere, though she was no longer in condition to see it.

"I wish Winnie was here—Winnie and Jim—or John or Harry or Jack—don't care who she'd have!" Chatty hiccupped.

"I don't," declared Bryant. "Just us two—"

He took her in his arms again, and his kiss was more than affectionate. Even though she didn't love him, Chatty found herself responding to it—

"I—I think I better go!" said something inside of Chatty.

"Go where?" demanded Bryant.

"Home. It must be late."

"You can go home any old time," answered Bryant. "Look here, kid, I'm crazy about you. You don't want to go home—yet!"

Chatty didn't take it in for a moment. The lights were still bright. The story he told tomorrow was still a precious bit of scandal. She'd show the old boys he couldn't get away with that sort of stuff! She'd ditched him with his wife once, and would again. Unless Winnie—Oh, well, Winnie would have to look out for herself.

"I said you can't go home—yet!" Bryant repeated the words, and put his hands around Chatty's waist, squeezing.

"But I must!"

"No!"

Chatty turned to him, puzzled. What did the man mean? "Of course I got to go home! Think I'm going to stay here?"

The remark came right out of Chatty's innocent mind. But Bryant was not innocent.

"That's just what I think!" His eyes were hot, predatory, eager. There was that in them which made Chatty come out of her semi-intoxicated state in a hurry. Something unknown, something evil, something dreadful, was behind those eyes. Curious, she had never noticed they were cold, fishy, calculating eyes, before—and the worst of it was, the kisses from the lips beneath the eyes were so sweet—

Slowly, in her drink sodden brain, the words took meaning. As Chatty grasped the idea, a great mounted in her; fright, all at last was good in her, all that was of her mother, all that loved and admired Billie—ah, all that adored the memory of Dave, who scorned her!

Chatty turned without a word, strode to the apartment door, opened it, and stepped through. Bryant was at her side in a moment, pulling her back. And she turned on him fiercely.

"I knew I ought to keep to my determination!" she cried.

"I knew I shouldn't go with you!"

Bryant knew he had gone too far. He was experienced and clever. He knew better than to explain or apologize. He picked Chatty up in his arms, carried her back into his apartment, dumped her in a chair, and stood in front of her.

"You can always go home from here, whenever you want to!" he comforted her. "Kiss me, pretty, now, and I'll take you home—"

Chatty was prompt on time to the office the next morning. She needed to Dave as she came in, receiving a cool stare in return. I hurt. She spoke pleasantly to Bryant, who looked as if he had been up all night. To Billie she put out a hand. "I was a beast last evening," she confessed. "I know you love me, and I oughtn't to be so—"

Billie smiled. She was very forgiving by nature. Arm in arm they went to the dressing room.

Then Winnie came in. In front of the room full of girls, Chatty dropped her little bombshell. "Hello, Winnie, old dear!" she began. "How do you feel after your evening's fling?"

"Fling? How do you mean, fling?" demanded Winnie.

"Oh, would you rather I asked the man I saw you with?" parried Chatty.

"Don't get it at all!" responded Winnie. Had Chatty not been so eager, she might have seen she was walking into a pitfall. "What you getting at, Chatty?"

The dressing room was quiet. Half a dozen girls stopped to listen.

squad. Cohn told police he believed the fire had been caused by a bomb. He left the building shortly before and there was no indication of a fire then.

Boby Jackson, a club employee, who left with Cohn, also was questioned, but his statement was not divulged.

Last year there were reports that there was friction between Cohn and Louis Riccardi, owner of Luigi's Cabaret, over patronage, but the differences were said to have been adjusted. Cohn said he left his club to go to Luigi's which was to have been opened for the winter season.

Patrolman Edward Cannane discovered the fire and turned in the alarm, racing back immediately to climb a wall to the second story and help five persons to safety.

Another patrolman, James McGuire, who also turned in an alarm, described the early stages of the blaze.

"I saw flames coming from the windows," she said. "At first, I thought it was only a small blaze and dashed to the nearest box to sound the alarm. In the next two minutes, however, the place had been converted into a blazing inferno. Women were screaming. Crows were collecting. Soon they were carrying the dead and dying out."

Beatrice Heath, a 23-year-old check room girl, told police she suddenly saw the wax-covered draperies flare into flames. She dove for a rear exit, but already the fire was cutting across the interior of the club, she said.

WIFE TUTORS HUSBAND IN KOREAN

Rev. and Mrs. Harold Voelpel.

Rev. and Mrs. Harold Voelpel, of Pottstown, Ill., are leaving soon for a five-year stay in Korea as missionaries. Mrs. Voelpel was born there and has been tutoring her husband for the last two years in the languages of Korea in preparation for their work.

told police he saw the flames sweeping toward the dining room. He said he dashed to a window, swung himself out to a telephone pole and escaped.

Sally Sweet, singer, who with her mother, Sarah, was filling an engagement at the club prior to returning to her Chicago home, dashed into a blazing room and rescued Mildred Pickard, pretty cloakroom girl.

M. H. Baker, one of the taxicab drivers who carried several injured persons to hospitals, said a mad panic seized the patrons as they fought to escape.

Baker said he and several other drivers had gathered in front of the cabaret to await the home-going crowd.

"Suddenly we heard screams and when I looked at the building I saw flames spreading everywhere," he said.

After driving their cars away from the building, Baker said he and other drivers started for the front door.

"Men were fighting to get out—one man, blinded by the smoke, locked the door and dropped the key to the floor. We broke down the door and pulled them out and drove them to the hospital."

On their return to the cabaret, Baker said they went to the back of the building and by means of a telegraph pole reached a window in the rear.

"One man got an axe, climbed to the window and smashed it," he said. "Men started fighting to escape, but none got out. I then saw a man on top of the roof with his clothes afire. We called to him to climb to the edge of the roof, but he dropped from sight."

Later when the front door was broken down, Baker said, "the air that rushed through must have helped spread the flames, for they grew brighter from then on."

The flames started in the crowded cabaret so quickly that only a few near the doors had a chance to escape. A. S. Ochs, president of the Brown and Morris manufacturing Co., said at receiving hospital.

"A man and woman entertainer had just finished a clog dance and another couple was doing a Spanish tango near the main entrance," Ochs asserted. "Most of us rushed to the entertainer's room at the other end of the dance floor, but the fire soon worked its way there by burning down the inflammable draperies. More than fifty of us tried to crowd into the small entertainers room, some of the men so intoxicated that they considered it just another part of the night's entertainment. It seems a miracle that more were not killed."

SAMPSON AND SEVEN OTHERS ACCUSED OF ACCEPTING BRIBES

book commission sat to make its selections for the schools. Different texts were adopted on four occasions but the courts held the books were "unfit for use." Then the textbook law was declared inoperative because of lack of funds with which to purchase books.

Investigation of the textbook commission was precipitated by one of the indicted members—Frank V. McChesney of Danville—who was ousted from the commission by Governor Sampson after a bitter fight, but regained his seat after sensational litigation.

Those indicted, besides Sampson and McChesney, were K. R. Cummings, Princeton; Sam Walker and W. R. McCoy, Inez; Miss Delphia Evans, Bowling Green and Robert J. Nickel and Mrs. George Smith, Lexington. Bond of each was set at $250.

The penalty, under the law, for accepting "gifts" is a fine of not more than $1000 or six months imprisonment, or both.

"I want an immediate trial," Governor Sampson told the United Press. "I have considerable business at hand and I do not want hanging fire." The governor requested a special session of the circuit court.

The grand jury report concludes with the declaration that the "gifts" were "a great number of common school textbooks, the exact number, description and time thereof unknown to the grand jury."

Mrs. Smith, teacher in English at the University of Kentucky, referring to the indictments as "all a matter of politics," admitted selling to a Chicago concern for $325, books given her but which she regarded as samples.

Undaunted by the grand jury's action, the commission prepared to reconvene today, determined to continue its efforts to adopt texts for the schools.

Meantime the grand jury was believed delving into the state highway department situation in connection with the alleged illegal sale of $10,000,000 in bridge bonds this summer. The sale, later thrown out by the courts after alleged private negotiations said to involve Governor Sampson, and the commission was made to Stifel Nicholas and Company of St. Louis and C. W. McNear of Chicago, despite a lower bid submitted by Stranahan, Harris and Otis of Toledo.

The governor's indictment found the state's political camps non-committal although political observers believe it will precipitate the worst feud in Kentucky history.
